

Gordon Takes Halting Step To Cut Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon's first step towards balancing the federal budget was a halting one—a nominal $6,600,000 reduction in the budgetary deficit to $685,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Mr. Gordon reported the deficit—third-highest in peacetime history—in a white paper tabled in the Commons Thursday as the prelude to his second budget speech next Monday evening.

It's generally expected the new budget will take a considerably larger step toward the minister's oft-stated goal of reducing the gap between spending and revenues.

See story Page 11

Mr. Gordon outlined the measures contained in his top-secret budget to cabinet colleagues at a cabinet meeting Thursday, informing finishing touches to the speech during a weekend visit to Toronto.

The total of seven consecutive annual deficits now stands at $2,580,000,000—six of them incurred under the past Conservative government including the peacetime peak of $731,000,000 in red ink in 1961-62.

LATER REVISION
The preliminary estimate of a $685,000,000 deficit for 1963-64, subject to later revision, was $700,000,000 higher than his forecast last July 8 when Mr. Gordon made some major alterations to his June 13 budget including a sharp cut in the new sales tax on building materials and production equipment.

The minister's first budget speech—prior to those alterations—had aimed at a $685,000,000 deficit. Although 25 days later he blunted this initial effort at shrinking the deficit, he told the Commons last summer: "We cannot contemplate an indefinite series of budget deficits."

NEW TAX
Budgetary revenues for 1963-64, buoyed by the diminished new sales tax and by economic expansion, rose 3.6 per cent to $2,077,000,000 from $2,000,000,000 last fiscal year.

Budgetary expenditures rose 4.9 per cent to $2,762,000,000 from $2,677,000,000 last fiscal year.

Angry Premier Cuts Debate on Parks

An angry Premier Bennett abruptly cut off a marathon debate on Recreation Minister Kierman's estimates at 1:10 a.m. today after he was accused of legislation by exhaustion.

The debate lasted for eight hours and 35 minutes and centred around Mr. Kierman's controversial Feb. 19 speech heralding a new approach to industrial activity in parks.

The premier snatched back Mr. Kierman's estimates totalling $9,800 and announced the House would sit again at 3 p.m. today to deal with bills. (See Page 38.)

The exhaustion charge came from Leo Nimsick (NDP, Cranbrook).

The government was expected later today to try an ancient gambit to ram through Mr. Kierman's estimates.

This would involve placing the bill back in debate a short time before 6 p.m. when the house usually rises for the weekend.

Earlier in the debate Mr. Kierman indicated, in answer to a question from Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP Grand Forks-Greenwood) that the government will consider naming a provincial park after the late Ernest Winch, a veteran OCfer in B.C. politics.

Body of Greek Monarch Leaves Cathedral in Athens

Royalty, Greeks By Million Mourn King

ATHENS (AP)—Six of Europe's seven reigning sovereigns and a host of other dignitaries from around the world took part Thursday in a funeral procession for King Paul.

The Greek monarch was buried on a tree-covered hill overlooking the country palace at Tatoi, 15 miles north of Athens, where he died of uremia a week ago following surgery for stomach ulcers.

More than 1,000,000 Greeks lined Athens' streets and the road to the grave to weep and pray as the man who had ruled for 17 of his 62 years passed to his final rest.

QUEEN ABSENT
Of Europe's sovereigns, only Queen Elizabeth of Britain was not there to say goodbye. She had a son Tuesday and could not come. Her husband, Prince Philip, a cousin of King Paul, attended.

The youngest of the monarchs was King Paul's own son and successor, King Constantine, 23. The oldest was King Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden, 81.

Walking with them were King Baudouin of Belgium, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, King

White Parents Picket

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of white parents, employing a tactic of Negro civil rights organizations, Thursday staged one of the largest protest demonstrations ever seen at city hall.

Their 2½-hour picketing protested plans to transfer pupils from neighborhood schools to balance enrolments racially.

Caretaker 'Compelling'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Herbert Whitaker adjudicated one performance of Harold Pinter's The Caretaker here Thursday night while his own production was being staged in Toronto.

But he made it clear from the start he doesn't think his way of directing it is the only "right" way.

And he said the Victoria Intimate Stage, under the hand of Tony Nicholson, did some things with the play "that I envied very much."

The Victoria group's production was the third of five this week at the British Columbia Regional Drama Festival, and the Toronto drama critic seemed to find it the best yet. Nicholson, he said, was not bound by the script and put "lots of bold business in it." Nicholson had made the story of three men in a West London attic "a study in three-fold eccentricity, closely relating it to the theatre of the absurd," said Mr. Whitaker. In his most enthusiastic compliments of the week, he said Rick Darnell gave a "very, very compelling performance" and he liked Michael Stephens "immensely," particularly in a demanding monologue that was "something of a tour de force."

River Creeps Up by Inches

Ravaged States Await Ohio's Flood Crest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Creeping up by inches, the overloaded Ohio River strengthened its assault Thursday on Kentucky and Indiana. Each state waited for near-record crests.

The worst appeared over for other states lying in the river's path but snow added to the discomfort of flood refugees in West Virginia's northern panhandle.

DISASTER CENTRE
The Red Cross opened disaster headquarters in Cincinnati to aid approximately 110,000 persons in five states whose property has been damaged by floods.

Of the nine deaths blamed on high waters, seven were in Ohio. One was reported in Kentucky; the other in Indiana.

Property damage soared into the multi-million-dollar category, particularly in areas without floodwalls.

WALLS IN POSITION

After a slow start, Louisville got its floodwalls into position as the Ohio reached 46.1 feet, or 18.1 feet more than flood stage. This still was 11 feet under the record during the 1937 catastrophe. The Ohio is expected to rise another foot.

At Cincinnati, 120 miles upstream, it was 14 feet above flood level.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY

At least 4,000 were homeless in Indiana and residents in the southern part waited anxiously for the Ohio to crest. New Albany and Jeffersonville, opposite Louisville, were safe behind their concrete shields, locked for the first time since they were completed in 1952. Outside the floodwall, an estimated 600 families fled.

3,000 BUILDINGS HIT

More than 3,000 homes and buildings in Wheeling, W.Va., were damaged as the river levelled off at 47 feet, 10 feet above flood stage. Snow swirled into the region, where an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 had been displaced.

Army engineers figured Pennsylvania damage would total $5,000,000 and said 1,700 persons had been displaced.

Queen Mum Arrives In Jamaica

KINGSTON — Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived here by air Thursday to join the royal yacht Britannia for a convalescent cruise in the Caribbean.

She flew here from New York's Kennedy International Airport, where she had tea and rested during a one-hour stopover while the BOAC transatlantic jetliner in which she travelled from London was refuelled.

During the wait she walked beneath a protective ramp to the Kennedy airport's lounge for distinguished visitors.

A spokesman said the Queen Mother was on "a very private visit." She is convalescing from an appendectomy. In Jamaica, she will board the royal yacht Britannia for a cruise.

Without Delay, Reds Told

Fliers' Return Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States demanded Thursday that the Soviets turn over "without delay" the three American crew members of the U.S. RB-45 plane shot down over Communist East Germany Tuesday.

In the face of Russian rebuffs of U.S. attempts to get back the wreckage and the fliers, Washington stepped up its diplomatic effort by summoning Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F.

Dobrynin to the state department.

Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, senior adviser on East-West affairs, told the Russian envoy, in a 12-minute meeting:

"The U.S. government categorically denies as contrary to fact the allegation in the Soviet government's note of March 11 that the U.S. aircraft in question was 'engaged in a military intelligence mission.'"

"The U.S. government expects the Soviet authorities to return to U.S. custody without delay the three U.S. personnel who were members of the crew of the aircraft."

Richard I. Phillips, state department press officer, issued this version of Thompson's oral representation to the Russian ambassador. Phillips earlier had disclosed that the Soviets had barred U.S. military teams from the crash site, about 30 miles inside East Germany, and had supplied no information about the three U.S. officers who had been aboard.

Washington had initially expressed regret that the plane had crossed into Red air space, and hoped the incident would pass. But, the longer the Soviets held the three airmen, the more serious the affair becomes.

Phillips said the U.S. government still has no official word as to whether the three fliers are alive. Unofficial reports say the men parachuted safely.

If, When Says Pearson

NICOSIA (AP)—The United Nations Thursday night hastened efforts to speed a peace-keeping force to Cyprus before this battered island could explode into even bloodier ethnic strife.

Between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in voluntary contributions were reported pledged by the United States, Britain and other countries for the upkeep of the peace force authorized last week by the UN Security Council.

Intensified activity at United Nations headquarters in New York came as the armed frontier demarking the Turkish and Greek-Cypriot sectors here bristled with warlike activity.

FORTIFY POSITIONS

In the last few days, from 600 to 1,000 troops of the Greek-Cypriot security forces have moved into fortified positions along many areas of the dividing line, British soldiers reported.

The British have fortified their own positions and pointed several big anti-tank guns into the Greek-Cypriot sector.

Turkish-Cypriots also have been busy on their side, throwing up a second long row of earthworks parallel to the Kyrenia Road. The road leads out of the Turkish sector to the Kyrenia mountains in the north. A Turkish-Cypriot leader in London said urgent international action is essential if the

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin met with Secretary-General U Thant for 1½ hours Thursday night and said afterwards he had "reassured" the secretary-general that Canada will participate in an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus as soon as one is constituted.

He indicated Canada would consider a force had been constituted when one more country besides Britain and Canada had committed itself to contribute.

The Canadian Parliament would have to approve the force.

STAND-BY

Martin said Canada's standby contingent of about 1,000 to 1,100 men could be dispatched quickly to the Mediterranean island.

"Once a force has been established there will be no delay on our part," he said.

Asked why Canada had "delayed" its reply for eight days,

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada will participate in a United Nations Cyprus force "if and when" one is constituted. The conditions laid down by this country for participation have been "substantially fulfilled," he told the Commons which received his statement in silence.

Earlier, the prime minister told a reporter that Canada is all set to send a battalion group—about 1,000 men—to Cyprus. He said a force should be sent soon because of the worsening situation there.

He hinted in the Commons that Canada may furnish more troops than the battalion group of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Camp Valcartier, Que.

ATHENS (Reuters)—Greece pledged "adequate reaction" today following a Turkish warning to President Makarios that Turkey will intervene unless measures are taken to safeguard Turks there.

He said the size of the Canadian contingent would be determined by the extent of participation by other countries.

Informed sources said Canada is willing to participate in a Cyprus force if a minimum of three countries—Canada, Britain and one other—contribute to it.

There were indications that Sweden is willing to join in now that the UN is receiving financial contributions to help pay Frederik of Denmark and King Olav V of Norway, and a host of nobles and famous figures from many lands.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, wife of the U.S. president, walked next to Prince Philip and West German President Heinrich Lübke.

RIDES IN CAR

Former president Harry S. Truman, 79, did not walk, but rode in an automobile near the rear of the procession.

There were special delegations from France, Italy, Cambodia, Iran, Morocco, Ethiopia, Spain, Jordan, Yugoslavia, Luxembourg, Libya, Egypt, and the Soviet Union.

The state funeral began with a 50-minute burial service in Athens' Greek Orthodox cathedral.

led by Archbishop Chrysostomos, Primate of Greece. As the choir sang the final hymn, Paul's widow, Queen Frederika, 46, knelt weeping and alone before the catafalque to kiss the side of her husband's coffin.

FIELD HOWITZER

The coffin was carried out and mounted on a field howitzer carriage. To the sound of cannon firing every two minutes, 100 sailors of the Greek Royal Navy pulled it by white ropes through sun-drenched streets.

Mourners came from all over Greece.

PRIVATE RITES

The procession halted on the outskirts of Athens and the sailors hauling the coffin were replaced by an army truck for the rest of the journey.

Your Good Health

Smoking in Wards Can't Be Prohibited

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a bad case of asthma and must go to the hospital when it becomes too severe. I am 50 years old. I do not smoke, as it irritates my condition. However, other patients sit in bed and smoke and visitors fill the room with smoke.

I don't understand why the doctors allow this to continue, especially with all the concern about lung cancer and evils of smoking.

My idea is a room set aside where patients and visitors can smoke without disturbing others. In my condition I cannot take it. I want to enjoy life and not be smoke dried in a hospital—H.W.S.

It would be helpful to "the doctors" if they could exercise the authority that you think they should, but ordering people to stop smoking usually doesn't have any more effect than ordering fat people to eat less.

NONE HARMED

I quite agree with you. The patient with a respiratory problem should NOT be subjected to tobacco smoke. In general, it would be good if we could prohibit all smoking in hospitals. Nobody would be harmed and many would be helped.

In hospitals which have few or no wards, but single or two-bed rooms instead, this isn't much of a problem.

SERIOUS PROBLEM

In larger wards, it becomes more serious. Maybe a solution would be to prohibit smoking by visitors, but to let the patients smoke if they chose. The patients, I presume, would be polite enough not to smoke while they had visitors present.

But what about the patient who has no visitors, and wants to light up, while the fellow in the next bed has visitors but mustn't smoke himself?

Frankly, I don't know the answer, but I print your letter in the hope that somebody else can think of one.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a growth of hair on the breast? Is there a cure?—T.V.H.

This is normal in many women, and no cause for alarm. There's no cure, but you can nip them off. (Don't pluck them, because of the possibility of infection.)

Hoffa Sentenced to Eight Years

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James R. Hoffa, professing his innocence and pride in the Teamsters Union, has been sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 for jury tampering.

U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson imposed the sentence Thursday, declaring the sticky union president was convicted of "having tampered, really, with the very soul of the nation."

The prison sentence, unless overturned on appeal, possibly will mean his ouster as head of a labor union with 1,700,000 members. No Teamsters union official has taken a hard stand on the matter, but one said "something will have to be done" if Hoffa goes to prison.

Under Thursday's sentence, Hoffa would be eligible for parole hearing after about 2½ years.

The Teamsters leader faces another federal trial in Chicago beginning April 27 on charges of misusing union pension funds.

Three other men convicted with Hoffa drew prison terms of three years each and fiery defense lawyer Jacques Schiffer of New York City was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $1,000 for criminal contempt of court.

All said they will appeal their sentences, which climax a seven-week trial on charges that Hoffa and the others convicted tried to fix a federal jury in Nashville.

France Gets U.S. Protest On Gabon Revolt Claims

PARIS (Reuters)—The United States has protested to France over allegations that last month's abortive revolt in the West African state of Gabon was American-inspired, it was learned Thursday night.

French government sources said a U.S. embassy representative here had drawn the French foreign minister's attention to the reports.

REPORTS DANGEROUS

The American representative pointed out that the reports were not only false but dangerous, as they could have an unfavorable effect on Franco-American relations, the sources said.

Sources close to the French government said no official statement accusing the U.S. of any responsibility whatever for the Gabonese revolt had ever been made here or in Libreville, capital of the West African republic.

MORAL SUPPORT

The sources agreed, however, that French circles in Gabon, a former French colony, did in fact believe the U.S. had lent at least moral support to the abortive coup d'etat of Feb. 17.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Evidence of spreading discord between France and the United States cropped up in a new quarter Thursday. The issue this time is a possible sale to Belgium of army tanks.

The United States is trying to sell Belgium several hundred medium tanks, designed as the M60A1, priced at $161,238 each.

RIVAL CAMPAIGN

In a rival campaign, France is trying to persuade the Brussels government to buy the French AMX-30 tank, which officials here say would cost about twice as much as the U.S. tank.

U.S. estimates are that the deal would involve close to $50,000,000 and eventually 300 tanks.

BUY EUROPEAN

Washington authorities say that the French, in pressing their sales campaign, are arguing, in substance, that Belgium as a European country should "buy European." Their argument is considered here to be linked to President de Gaulle's long-range policy objective of making the Western European allies in NATO increasingly independent of the U.S.

Reports have spread in Europe in recent days that the U.S. is putting heavy pressure on the Belgian government to buy the U.S. tank and arguing that it would be an unfriendly act for Belgium to choose the French weapon. But a state department spokesman here Thursday called such reports "totally untrue," and specially denied that Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II had brought any improper pressure to bear on the Belgian government.

Fishboat 'War' Flares

NASSAU (AP)—Gunfire broke out Thursday between Cuban and Bahamian fishing boats, but the quarrel apparently was short-lived. Six hours later the boats were fishing peacefully within two miles of one another.

The captain who reported the shooting was asked to report to Bahamian police today.

FIRING REPORTED

Police Commissioner Nigel Morris of the Bahamas said the captain of the trawler Madame Elizabeth radioed early Thursday that his boat and a sister vessel, Andros Trader, were being fired upon by men on three Cuban vessels, armed with high-powered rifles.

Morris said a late report indicated the incident involved a shot, or shots, fired from one of the Cuban boats at only the Madame Elizabeth.

ALL PEACEFUL

"A police patrol plane spotted both Bahamian vessels and the three Cuban boats fishing peacefully within two miles of each other more than six hours after the shooting," said Morris.

The U.S. Coast Guard sent a cutter to the scene of the incident 60 miles east of the Florida coast, in international waters, to stand by "in case its services are required for any reason."

Careful Spending

THE CAPITAL budget plan for Victoria put before the council by City Manager Dennis Young provides a prudent way of going about development of varying urgency. It is appealing both because it would open the door to new progress and because it would keep a cautious rein, continuously, on borrowing and consequent debt charges.

If the proposals are adopted, there may be those who will be disappointed that the city having so greatly reduced its once dismaying load of indebtedness, cannot shrink it still further. A look at the list of the projects that await action, however, shows that more borrowing is imperative if Victoria is to be able to hold up its civic head.

A virtue of the capital budget as delineated by Mr. Young is that it would regulate the commitments so as to keep total debt costs to a maximum of 25 per cent of the city's tax revenue in any year, and in the five-year initial program would increase charges on this account by less than one-fifth of a mill a year.

The budget thus would compel the most careful planning for improvement and thoughtful assignment of priorities to the numerous proposed works: even for the initial program the schedule of desirable expenditures presented to the aldermen would have to be cut by a half.

This is a sound and business-like approach. It would not provide for a great and sudden leap forward in the city's development, but it would permit steady progress. It would prevent the haphazard and wasteful undertaking of new debt; it would ensure that the city would stay reasonably within its means in respect to capital outlays, and it would thus safeguard the taxpayers.

Walking, Anyone?

THERE IS A DISTINCT possibility that Saturday's organized walk through James Bay sponsored by the Capital Region branch of the Community Planning Association of Canada may help to revive general public interest in the once popular pastime of pedestrianism.

It many parts of Canada, walking—like conversation—has become a lost art. And for much of Canada there is every reason to believe that the loss is not only bearable but largely desirable for there is little to see and nowhere to walk.

Happily, Victoria is not one of these unfortunate areas. It is, in fact, made for walking. It has the ideal climate for those who wish to explore it on foot, and literally hundreds of points of interest awaiting the viewer—whether he be interested in architecture, gardens, parks, historical sites, quaint houses, or simply the beauties of nature.

Many Greater Victorians who seldom use their feet these days except to walk to and from the nearest parking lot might find to their astonishment that walking for pleasure is both a rewarding and healthful hobby—to say nothing of being a delightfully inexpensive one.

All, in fact, that is needed is a reasonably sound pair of feet and a stout pair of good shoes. It also helps to have a modicum of appreciation of the simpler things of life, so many of which we overlook in these days of mechanized mobility.

Improvement Needed

MAYOR WILSON has been trying to interest TCA officials in the idea of stepping up the Victoria-Seattle service with a view to tapping the large market of potential tourists in the Seattle area who might be tempted to visit here were air travel cheaper and flights more frequent.

Only some 15,000 passengers were carried on this run last year, which seems a comparatively paltry volume of traffic between two such adjacent centres of population. It can be assumed that if sufficiently promoted a campaign to greatly increase this volume would show profitable results.

At present there are only two return flights daily between this city and Seattle, a frequency which obviously does not encourage American tourists to come here by air and which limits the numbers likely to visit Victoria without cars. An improvement in this service would be sure also of the promotional backing of both civic and local tourist agencies.

The example of the popularity and success of overseas charter flights is what the mayor has in mind, an innovation of recent years which has boosted oceanic passenger travel to high levels. This shows that if fares are tempting there is a potential pool of passengers waiting only for the opportunity. In any case two flights a day seem a poor way for TCA to combat the rivalry of other forms of transportation, suggesting even that the air line has almost given up the ghost. Moreover, the new Patricia Bay terminal will soon be in operation and there would seem small warrant for its additional facilities if these are not taken full advantage of by active steps to attract as large a volume of traffic as possible.

It is to be hoped that TCA will appreciate the situation as it affects the tourist trade of this area and study the matter fully with a view to falling in line with the mayor's representations, to its own benefit as well as that of this city. It can be claimed also that TCA has an obligation to the capital city to provide adequate and reasonably priced service between here and Seattle, two neighboring population centres of close and continuing contact. It seems axiomatic that if fares were cheaper and there were more flights the chances of Seattle visitors using TCA facilities would be greatly increased.

Very Difficult

MR. JOSEPH SLOGAN (Springfield): Mr. Speaker, I have a question for the minister of health. In view of the evasion of my question, by the Prime Minister yesterday, could the minister of health let the House know with a straight yes or no answer whether her department endorses or does not endorse the principle of water fluoridation?

Hon. Judy V. LaMarsh (Minister of National Health and Welfare): Mr. Speaker, may I say that it is an extremely difficult question which asks a woman to answer either yes or no.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

MOST men I know are so little pleased with the photographs taken of them it's a wonder so many victims are so ready to face a television camera.

This is the medium that shows them up, warts and all. Cassandra was talking on this page yesterday—a writer merely talks in print, after all—the photographic looks of British politicians in the election that although not yet called over there is in fact under way.

If you read his piece, as I hope you did, you would find he is hard to please. None of the political stars he mentions measures up to his standard. Although what this standard should be is anyone's guess. Churchill alone he excepts as making no deep impression by his looks alone. And it wasn't sheer facial beauty that won him acclaim.

Cassandra was citing election posters, those static images that so often keep gazing forlornly at the world after battle has been lost or won. And on our home ground as well as abroad. But television comes into the picture, too, and Britons are being attracted or repelled according to their tastes in photographic appeal on the BBC networks. Politicians are clamoring to get on the small screen.

As to that we at home here are treated these nights to our own MLAs risking the queries of a CBC quizmaster, as well as their photographic image, on the affairs across James Bay. They are bold chaps, TV can be ten times more deadly than still pictures pinned on telephone poles. A man is shown up in action, his manner vying with his remarks to promote or denude his appeal.

For politicians there is the famous example of the Kennedy-Nixon television debate which is given credit for having put the late president into the White House. Kennedy won the debate and the attraction of the voters because he had good looks, and poise and apparent competence into the bargain.

Yet of course TV appearances alone isn't a suitable criterion by which to judge a political leader. Kennedy proved that his image wasn't misleading but that's no guarantee. If it were television cameras might be the chief candidates on the hustings.

Still and all, it would be titillating to watch, say, Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fulton in a TV debate similar in style and form to the Kennedy-Nixon encounter.

I won't run the gamut of Canadian political leaders and tell you how each affects me when I see him on the screen, for after all I am no Adonis and wouldn't want my looks to be dissected. As it happens I think I did this once before, and once is enough.

Too much mock shouldn't be put on TV images anyway. A man's looks, even his department, may easily create a false impression. The brain box can't be photographed, and it isn't always associated with a glib tongue.

I can recall a military man I knew, who was not merely handsome but had a visage that seemed to bespeak command and capacity, who while a good chap was sadly deficient in his abilities.

Yet television threatens to become a medium of judgment in capturing the favor of voters, and more's the pity. On a screen a man and his mannerisms may easily give rise to superficial impressions. And it can't fairly be held against him if he isn't photogenic.

Lesson for Canada

ONE of the great questions marks in world affairs today is whether West and East Germany will come together again. I have no doubt that in the minds of most Germans it would be quickly answered in the affirmative and to them the only real question would be how long they will have to wait.

In the meantime each Germany has been careful to avoid any action that will be taken as recognizing the separate existence of the other. For this reason neither has joined the United Nations although both have observers in New York.

The Russians obviously intend to do everything in their power to keep Germany divided. Presumably they still have clear recollections of the way they suffered at the hands of the Germans in the Second World War and believe their present

Housing Progress

Around in Circles

From The Ottawa Journal

THERE is a new wrinkle in housing that must be seen in historical perspective.

Houses used to have rooms in them. The rooms were connected by solid doors you could close. Times changed and there was leveled glass in the doors, then double doors with glass in them. Then they took the doors off and had arches between rooms. Then they made the arches white to wall and the rooms weren't rooms anymore; they were areas. A family that lived in areas had togetherness—willy nilly.

Progress must go on, so people began finding fault with areas. A pile of dishes in the food preparation area clashed with the decor of the relaxation area. And quaint people came to be squeamish about having a breezeway to the ablation area, even if all the fixtures were in the decorator colors. So someone hit upon putting up area-dividers, see-through bookcases without many books in them, so you could see through but not too much. Progress can't be kept down and the next move was solid bookcases, and then arches. Finally the avant-garde architects started separating areas from areas with walls, with doors in them, doors you could close.

This history of progress leads to thought of circles. So for this year's National Home Show in Toronto an architect, Mr. Harry B. Kohl, has designed a house of circles, "as a rebellion against the monotony of rectangular units." It may take a heap of living to make a rebellion a home.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press
Austrian union with Nazi Germany was declared 26 years ago today—in 1938—in a decree by Austrian Chancellor Arthur Seyss-Inquart. Former chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg had wanted to hold a plebiscite on the question of Austrian independence March 13, but Hitler, accompanied by German troops, entered the country March 12. A plebiscite was held April 10 throughout "Greater Germany" and the vote was more than 98 per cent in favor of Hitler.

Problem of Split Nations

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs border between West and East Germany.

One would think that this situation must come to an end in a very short time. However it has now continued for nearly 20 years and as long as the two super-powers, the United States and the Soviet Union, remain at arm's length it probably will continue.

When the time comes that they are able to co-operate in world affairs the German question will no doubt be settled on some compromise basis. Meanwhile neither super-power is likely to want a third world war, with its nuclear holocaust, started over Berlin or any other German problem.

One exception to this would be if West Germany acquires nuclear weapons in her own control. Should this happen the possibility of a nuclear war would be greatly increased.

The British and the French are also directly involved in Germany, including Berlin, because like the Americans and the Russians their nations were occupying powers at the end of the war and continue as such today.

Canada is not in the picture directly but as a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with troops and airmen in West Germany she would very quickly find herself in the thick of things if trouble started. Actually she has a mission in Berlin under the direction of her ambassador in Bonn, the capital of West Germany. She does not recognize East Germany and has no dealings with that part of the country. Quite a large trade has been built up between West and East Germany and they are both actively promoting trade with other nations and giving considerable aid to less developed countries. They are driving ahead with the energy and resourcefulness for which Germans everywhere are noted.

Meanwhile the division continues—just as it does between North and South Korea and North and South Viet Nam. These situations arise out of a set of circumstances; they seem illogical and so they are but such solutions are usually the best that can be reached under the conditions existing at the time. I expect there will always be situations in the world which appear foolish to the persons and nations not involved.

Eventually the United Nations may be able to solve the split-nation problems. Today it is severely handicapped in this work because in each of the cases I have mentioned there is at least one big power standing behind each of the divided nations. In short these nations are divided as a result of action by other nations.

There is a salutary lesson here for Canada too. No other nation, large or small, is trying to divide her but some Canadians are whispering that she should divide herself because of difficult domestic issues. Such talk should be repudiated by Canadians of all racial origins and of all walks of life.

Our nation is the envy of practically every nation in the world. No other has a finer record or greater possibilities for the future. Division of the country would destroy all this and be a first-class example of national suicide.

Profits and Taxes

Our Readers' Views

READING Phyllis Johnson's letter where she advocates the takeover of the B.C. Telephone Co. because of the high profits of the Bell Telephone Co., this seems to me a hardly fair comparison with B.C. whose net profits after dividends were $2,316,058. On reading their statement for the year, 1963, I also note provincial, municipal and other taxes come to $2,588,140 with income tax of $10,067,911.

We must take these figures into consideration when we find our toll calls somewhat high.

After all governments by taxation received altogether $12,636,051 for the past year, while shareholders received $8,612,180. I cannot see why governments should bother to take over business with its worries when they already get 50 per cent more than the owners, the shareholders.

ACCOUNTANT.

Fast Driving

I was rather amazed some time ago to infer from reported statements of our minister of highways that it was safer to drive fast than slow. So what is wrong with our newspapers when they tell us of cars being driven too fast around a mountain curve and toppling down a cliff to death and destruction. Or losing control of a car and banging into a telephone pole, a wall or a house or smashing into the rear of another car and demolishing both car and driver. But of course that was entirely the fault of the slow driver who should have been skidding to safety.

Marketing

Mr. Mitchell Sharp, minister of trade at Ottawa, must have been reading the back files of his department, when he tells the British to give more attention to marketing their products if they wish to sell more in Canada.

The same advice was given to the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales, and has been used on numerous occasions since. But each fresh effort by the British gives rise to new Canadian legislation to offset any progress they may have made.

And when Mr. Sharp tells this same nation of "shopkeepers" to use a more scientific approach to increase their exports to Canada, one recalls an old saying about "teaching grandmothers."

Border Barrier

The Junior Chamber of Commerce campaign to attract retired persons is an excellent one, and should be helped and encouraged.

Regarding those from the U.S. who desire to reside in Victoria the immigration regulation pertaining to the extensive and expensive medical examination should be modified. After all, the immigration inspector is the official who sanctions whether you can be admitted or not. If you pass all medical requirements the immigration officer does not give you an affirmative answer until he sees you. So you have to go to Victoria in order to be approved or not.

Consumer Goods

New Tune In Russia

By MARK FRANKLAND
from Moscow

THE Soviet newspaper Pravda recently gave one-and-a-half pages to explaining why it was now possible and indeed necessary to increase the tempo of expansion of consumer goods industries.

Its author, Academician Arzumanyan, a leading theoretician, clearly felt that he was not writing for a totally convinced audience. Indeed, his article following recent remarks of Mr. Khrushchev, gives quite a good insight into the sort of opposition which some of the Soviet leader's economic policies have been encountering here.

Mr. Khrushchev has for several years talked about increasing the standard of living. He has made it clear that his understanding of Communism is far from ascetic. He apparently finds it natural that there should be a reasonably greedy consumer in almost every Soviet citizen.

Nonetheless, the consumer has remained the underdog in the Soviet economy. Last year the gap in the annual percentage increase between the industries producing further means of production (group "A") and the consumer goods industries (group "B") was the biggest it has ever been, with one exception, during the past 10 years. The "A" group increased by 10 per cent, the "B" group only by 5 per cent. At the same time the "A" group has each year occupied an increasing proportion of the total gross industrial product, reaching 74 per cent in 1962.

According to Mr. Arzumanyan, some Soviet economists still claim that unless "A" goods continue to occupy an increasing share of total industrial production, production cannot continue to expand. He rates them for having over-stretched the importance of "A" goods production to absurd lengths and quite unconvincingly links them in this with Stalin. He says that Stalin had such a low opinion of the importance of consumer goods production that he considered it would be enough to increase real wages just twice the 1951 level for the so-called "transition to Communism"—i.e., the time when, according to Communist theory, material abundance is just around the corner.

To stress the importance of consumer goods production at this stage, Arzumanyan wrote, is not to be guilty of a "consumer's approach." In the past, he said, the country's economic development was linked with sacrifices, it was necessary to economize in everything, including personal consumption. But now the economy is sufficiently "full bloated" for the Soviet Union to continue to expand, to increase its defence capacity "and at the same time to force personal consumption." He listed the three main areas of demand in the Soviet economy today in this order—industrial, personal and military.

All this is a very different tune to the one played in past months. In particular, Mr. Khrushchev in speeches before and after the Cuban crisis of October, 1962, was constantly referring to more impelling needs, particularly military ones, than the Soviet consumer's satisfaction.

From Mr. Khrushchev's own recent speeches we know that some people, hardened dogmatists, according to the Soviet premier, have been complaining that his plan to expand the chemical industry is only "the consumer's approach" in action. There has also been a group within the chief planning bodies (again, according to Khrushchev) who have obstructed the development of new branches of industry, including chemicals, and who have pushed on with the expansion of the traditional branches of heavy industry. Mr. Khrushchev's battle against these specialists and presumably "old-fashioned" party members who support them has been less than successful in recent years, often because military needs were such that the claim of heavy industry could not be ignored.

What chance has Mr. Khrushchev of getting his way now? First, he has set for this year and next an average expansion rate of 8.3 per cent for the "A" group industries and a 7.25 per cent expansion for the "B" group. This means the gap between their expansion rates will be considerably less than it has been on average during the past 10 years.

It is now unlikely that the planners will be able to get in Khrushchev's way as he says they have in the past. This means that the targets for the chemical industry, which were set, it must be remembered, as far back as 1958, at last stand a chance of being met. This would mean a considerable benefit to the Soviet consumer, though perhaps not as much as is claimed publicly, and it would be a signal Khrushchev victory over the "old-fashioned" economists, planners and, not least, politicians.

Lodge's Win Breaks Republican Stalemate

Professor Puts Ulbricht on Spot

By ANTONY TERRY, from BONN

Communist intellectuals and scientists inside East Berlin University last week launched the first serious challenge to Walter Ulbricht's regime since the East German party purges following the Hungarian revolution eight years ago.

Headed by the internationally distinguished Professor Robert Havemann, the 44-year-old director of the physics and chemistry institute of the East Berlin Humboldt University, they have openly demanded in discussions with students the adoption of an "absolute and abstract conception of freedom" unfettered by communist "principles."

In philosophical debates with the students, Professor Havemann also touched on an especially sore spot with the East German regime by arguing that a communist state should not copy the Nazis in imposing the death sentence for political offences.

So far the East German authorities have been afraid to take direct action against Professor Havemann because of his excellent communist party record and his wartime experiences under the Nazis. He was sentenced to death after a Nazi show trial in 1943 for belonging to a communist resistance group but was reprieved by Hitler to work in an armaments research laboratory set up for him in prison.

After the war he held scientific posts in both East and West Berlin but lost those in West Berlin after he launched a series of savage communist propaganda attacks on the Bonn government and its leaders.

In East Berlin it was reported that Professor Havemann is no longer allowed to lecture at the university, but his criticisms of the inflexibility of the Ulbricht regime compared with other east European countries have put East German party officials on the defensive for the first time.

East Berlin Communist party officials have told Professor Havemann to restrict his lectures to scientific subjects and it is reported that he has refused to do so. They have told him he must stop attacking East German leaders but they have so far not dared to have him arrested.

Dr. Havemann vigorously defended his views during an eight-hour debate last week with the University's Communist party group. Many of the party officials who had been told to attack him refused to do so and at the end of the meeting he had unanimous support.

The Communist youth organization at the university has refused to take disciplinary steps against Professor Havemann in order not to "conflict with the Communist party group in the university which has done nothing about him either."

The apparent helplessness of the East German regime to quell what is admitted to be the most dangerous ideological revolt by prominent Communist intellectuals shows that despite Ulbricht's tough resistance to change and the tenacity of the Stalinist old guard there is unlikely to be a return to the show trials and purges of a few years ago.

So far the East German government has only fired a minor party official at the university as a result of the trouble.

Contraceptive Device Cheap, Safe, Effective

OFNS from Washington

Thirty thousand women in Chile are now being fitted with "the coil," a contraceptive device so cheap, so safe, and so effective that American birth control experts think it may catch on with revolutionary effect in underdeveloped countries.

It is made of green nylon fishing line wound into a coil an inch in diameter. It is worn inside the womb.

It prevents pregnancy more effectively than any other contraceptive in common use.

Statistical results with this and similar devices in Puerto Rico, Israel, Japan and the United States suggest that it may allow less than two unwanted pregnancies for every 100 patient-years with conventional mechanical devices.

An even greater advantage, especially with ignorant or careless women in the slums of Asian or Latin-American cities, is that it need be fitted only once a year and stays in place.

Each coil—one year's protection from unwanted conception—costs less than five cents and can be fitted by staff who need not be expensive trained surgeons and need no expensive equipment.

The principle is that the presence of a foreign body inside the womb prevents pregnancy.

"Ambassador Lodge wanted to go out to Saigon. If he were as careful as some politicians are, of course, he would not have wanted to go there. He would have maybe liked to have some safe job. But he is energetic and he has strong feelings about the United States and, surprising as it seems, he put this ahead of his political career. Sometimes politicians do strange things..."—President Kennedy in an interview on Sept. 2, 1963.

The strange thing that Henry Cabot Lodge did has helped to push him to the forefront among presidential candidates in the Republican party.

Lodge has friends, particularly Irving Saloman, owner of Rancho Lila at Escondido near San Diego, Cal. Saloman is a wealthy retired business executive, originally from Chicago, and a close friend of Paul Hoffman, one-time head of the U.S. foreign aid program and an original political backer of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Through associations in the Ford Foundation and as a member of the U.S. delegation to the U.N., Saloman formed the opinion that Lodge, if he could be properly exploited, would be the hottest article in the Republican showcase.

The outlook was not too promising. Pollsters found that Senator Goldwater was a 4-to-1 favorite in New Hampshire, but those inspired with the Lodge idea decided to canvass the situation anyway.

They met in Boston last December. Those present were Saloman; George Lodge, the ambassador's son; Paul Grindler, who is in the export-import business; Dave Goldberg, lawyer; George Kidder, lawyer; and Robert Mullen, a Washington public relations man.

The Lodge conferees made an amazing discovery. A Cambridge, Mass., public opinion expert informed them that beneath the seeming 4 to 1 advantage for Goldwater in New Hampshire lay a strong apathy toward both Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

They decided to take advantage of this through the techniques of modern advertising: direct mail and spot radio-TV programs. The link with Ambassador Lodge would be his son.

Lodge had authorized this when he returned from Saigon in November and saw Saloman in California. Lodge was on his way back to report to President Kennedy, who was, however, assassinated before Lodge reached Washington.

The campaign for Lodge was thus known to the ambassador and he let it run as it would. The decision to go into New Hampshire has been proved surprisingly right.

Lodge will have a chance to show his West Coast support in the Oregon primary in which he is formally entered against Nixon, Rockefeller, Goldwater and Stassen on May 15.

Lodge is maintaining his posture: the handsome, reserved American, serving his nation on the front-line in the war against communism. He will eventually have to quit as ambassador but he will stay in Saigon as long as President Johnson's patience lasts.

The Lodge venture has broken the Republican stalemate, downgraded the California primary on which Rockefeller and Goldwater counted for the final decision, and opened the way for Republican consideration of a middle-of-the-road nominee: Lodge, Nixon or Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania.

BACKGROUND

Cambodia No Longer Neutralist

By MALCOLM BROWNE, from Saigon

Cambodia is the geographic keystone of the Indochina peninsula, a supply route from North Viet Nam and Laos to the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam, a potential corridor for similar infiltration into Thailand.

CAMBODIA'S PRINCE

If Sihanouk invited Communist Chinese forces in, they would split the peninsula down the middle.

Because of this, American policy has aimed at keeping Cambodia neutral, and if possible willing to co-exist with its pro-Western neighbors.

But in a statement published yesterday by Communist China's official news agency, the prince said he would shortly open negotiations with North Viet Nam to settle border questions, conclude a friendship and non-aggression treaty and establish diplomatic relations.

Sihanouk said he also would negotiate with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in Laos for a "gentleman's agreement" on disputed territory along the Cambodian-Lao border. Little doubt remains that the rich little country can no longer be classified as neutralist.

Yugoslavs Win Right to Strike

OFNS from London

Yugoslavia has restored the workers' right to strike.

The decision was announced by Pashko Radacic, chairman of the Yugoslav National Assembly's commission for social control. It makes Yugoslavia the first communist country to legalize stoppage of work.

A ruling on strikes became necessary after a number of work stoppages all over the country, especially in Slovenia, the most industrialized area.

Radacic said that investigations "had shown that the stoppages of work in Yugoslavia did not have a political background and were not inimical to the communist regime."

'Astonishing'

Probe Setup Rapped

QUEBEC (CP)—A Montreal lawyer said Thursday he is "astonished" that the Quebec government appointed lawyers to counsel its civil servants and police after setting up a royal commission to inquire into their behavior in the Coffin murder case.

Raymond Daoust, representing author Jacques Hebert at the royal commission, said he feels the government's action was "incompatible" with the objectivity of the inquiry.

His remarks were made in the form of a statement rather than an objection as the commission resumed hearings Saturday.

Mr. Justice Roger Brossard, the commissioner, said that as a result, it was a matter for the government itself to decide upon rather than the commission. He would have had to rule upon a formal objection.

"OBSERVERS"

He said Jean Groulx and Jean Blais, both Crown prosecutors in Quebec City, than an objection as the commission be looked upon perhaps as "observers" rather than counsel for Chief Inspector J. A. Melo of the Quebec Provincial Police and Deputy Attorney-General Charles Edouard Cantin.

Mr. Daoust said civil servants and police involved in the Caron vice probe in Montreal a decade ago and the recent Salvas inquiry into the purchasing practices of the old Union Nationale government didn't benefit from government-appointed counsel.

The appointments in the Brossard commission were "a serious anomaly," he felt.

Mr. Cantin was deputy attorney-general when Coffin was tried and hanged Feb. 10, 1956, for the slaying of three Pennsylvania hunters in Quebec's Gaspé in 1953.

LED PROBE

Chief Inspector Matte led the investigation into the slayings. Mr. Hebert said in his book that eight men were responsible for Coffin being railroaded to the gallows to satisfy United States demands for a conviction in the slayings, and to protect the name of Quebec's tourist industry. The book was titled "L'Accusé les Assassins de Coffin." It resulted in the inquiry which began Feb. 24.

Francois Gravel, representing the Coffin family, asked that the complete files of the attorney-general's department on the Coffin case be brought forward, as well as personal files of all members of the attorney-general's department.

He also asked for "the personal dossier" of the late Premier Maurice Duplessis on the Coffin case. Mr. Duplessis also was attorney-general when the Coffin trial and execution took place.

Baby Better, Rare Blood Call Halted

REGINA (CP)—Steady improvement in the condition of a three-day-old infant brought a temporary halt to plans by the Regina Red Cross to seek further supplies of a rare blood from American donors.

A Red Cross official said Thursday night he was hopeful additional supplies will not be required. A halt had been called to earlier plans to bring in additional supplies before the week-end.

Six pints of VEL-negative blood, a type one in 2,500 persons have, were flown into Regina this week. Four have been used.

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canada can expect $1,000,000,000 in tourist revenue in the centennial year 1967, Trade Minister Sharp said Thursday.

Mr. Sharp, federal minister in charge of the 1967 World's Fair in Montreal, made the prediction during a get-acquainted visit to world's fair headquarters. He said receipts from tourists would jump spectacularly over the $800,000,000 spent by visitors last year.

The trade minister was led through the developing fair site—a man-made island in the St. Lawrence River off Montreal—by Mayor Drapeau.

"There is no doubt that work on the site is proceeding extremely satisfactorily," Mr. Sharp said. "The fair has passed through its difficult, formative stage, and now it is going straight ahead."

Hour of Tory Scorn

Arms Roundup Again

OTTAWA (CP)—The Conservatives had nearly an hour in the Commons Thursday to pour ridicule, scorn and charges of incompetence on Defence Minister Hellyer in connection with the army's security roundup of arms from armories and cadet corps.

And they made full use of it. The occasion was a motion by Thomas A. Bell (PC—Saint John-Albert) to have Mr. Hellyer make public all the letters, memos and directives issued in connection with the roundup. It was debated in the private members' hour.

"Slipshod," Mr. Bell said, to describe the operation. It had led to a public lack of confidence in the defence department. It—as Mr. Hellyer once said—his orders were not being followed.

plied uniformly, that was the best reason for the public to scrutinize the directives.

"A very sad day," said Conservative whip Eric Winkler (Grey-Bruce), when the army chooses to collect arms at Orangeville, Ont. this implied that the town was among the so-called "sensitive areas" and it had led to loss of morale by the local citizenry. "This is a terrible thing, they've never known such a thing in their history."

COMpletely LOUSY

"Completely lousy," added David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Revelstoke). He couldn't believe that the armed forces created such a state of confusion. It must have been due to unclear orders from the top.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said it was a clear case of bungling. Why was his area described as "sensitive"? The entire operation had been a combination of tragedy in some cases, comedy in others. By the time they all finished, Mr. Hellyer had less than three minutes for reply. He repeated some of his earlier statements in connection with steps taken to tighten security following the thefts from Quebec armories.

And he added that the defence department has been concerned for some time about small - arms security. The switch from Lee Enfield .303 rifles to the new FN rifle a few years ago raised the problem of designing racks to ensure secure storage. For about two years there had been serious studies to "tighten up security."

Pension Account

Defence Costs Rise Slightly

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence expenditures, including those of the defence production department, amounted to $1,899,000,000 in the 1963-64 fiscal year, Finance Minister Gordon disclosed Thursday in a pre-budget white paper.

This represented 24.7 per cent of all federal budgetary expenditures compared with $1,600,000,000 and 24.4 per cent in 1962-63.

Defence department spending of $1,628,700,000 in the year ending March 31 was $87,000,000 higher than in 1962-63. It was also $25,000,000 higher than the original 1963-64 estimate.

Main reason for the increase was a special government contribution of $76,500,000 to the armed forces pension account. There were smaller increases

Second Banks Trial Set

MONTREAL (CP)—Hall also faces preliminary hearing (SIU march on Ottawa last April 6 on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the ment of the trustees.

Banks was sent to trial Thursday on the second of three conspiracy charges laid against him by the federal justice department following establishment of a federal board of trustees over Canada's five maritime unions last fall.

At the same time, the trustees ordered the Seafarers' International Union of Canada, (Ind.) of which Banks is president, to name members for a union-trustee committee to study the constitutionality of the SIU's national shipping rules.

Banks was sent to trial on a charge of conspiring to assault Richard Greaves, an officer of the National Association of Marine Engineers, in Vancouver more than four years ago.

He faces trial March 24 on another charge of conspiracy to main or disfigure Capt. Henry Francis Walsh, an organizer for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild CLC, who was badly beaten in Owen Sound, Ont., in August, 1957.

Shumiatcher

Shumiatcher, Cohorts Indicted for Fraud

REGINA (CP) — The attorney-general's department has filed a direct indictment in Saskatchewan against Dr. M. C. Shumiatcher of Regina and two former business associates on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public.

The move was taken in a case involving the operation of a mining company between July 1, 1954, and Dec. 31, 1961. A direct indictment is a procedure open to the crown in several provinces and the

Blamed on Barge

Oil-Soaked Birds Dying by Hundreds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hundreds of oil-soaked birds are dying in the waters of Howe Sound, 25 miles northeast of here.

A thin film of oil—perhaps from the weekend sinking of a barge—stretches 20 miles from Port Mellon to Gibsons.

Residents have found half-drowned birds in agony on the beaches, where they have crawled to escape cold water soaking through their feathers. "I've lived here all my life and this is the worst I've seen," fisherman Ed Wren said Wednesday.

"... There must be hundreds of them. I have killed quite a few."

Ray Bicknell, president of Gulf Towing which was taking the oil barge to Britannia Beach, said leaks in the 300,000-gallon barge were sealed Saturday.

"I don't know how much oil escaped," he said. "But it was not very much."

Austin Moorcroft, a member of the Gibsons Rod and Gun Club, said the beach is littered with dead and dying ducks. He predicted it would severely reduce next year's waterfowl population.

Diving birds, particularly the ducks, seem to be most severely affected. There are mallards, harlequins, gold eyes, American scoters, loons, helldivers, gulls and grebes.

KILLING MINDED

Alan Best, supervisor of Vancouver's Stanley Park zoo, said the kindest thing anyone could do to heavily-oiled birds is to kill them.

"It may sound cruel but most of them will die anyway and it is just putting them out of their misery," he said.

Mr. Best said several kinds of birds freeze to death under these conditions, die of despondency when they cannot go near the water, or poison themselves with the oil trying to preen.

Rape Trial Moved

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — The James Leonard Mosher rape trial has been moved 600 miles north to Prince George, and the Columbian, New Westminster daily newspaper, has been cited for contempt of court.

Mr. Justice Nathan Neumeister Wednesday granted an application to dismiss a jury northern territories to bring a matter before the courts.

Dr. Shumiatcher said Thursday the move will not alter his plans to appeal his conviction for trial by a judge at the next Queen's bench sitting in Saskatoon. Normally this would be in June, but a special session starts April 13.

Dr. Shumiatcher's notice for appeal was scheduled to be heard Tuesday at the next session of the Saskatchewan court of appeal.

Foreign Objects Left In 10 Patients in 1962

TORONTO (CP) — Articles or foreign bodies were left in at least 10 patients during operations by doctors in Canada in 1962.

In one case a girl died and an object was found to have been left in her throat.

This was disclosed in the report of the Canadian Medical Protective Association issued to members last June. The association has 13,600 members and handles civil-legal problems.

E. P. Newcombe, general counsel of the Ottawa-based national association, said in his section of the report: "... in at least 10 cases this year, we have been faced with the problem of drains, sponges, needles, forceps and other foreign bodies left in patients."

The report said that no case that went to court was lost. But a number of cases were settled out of court.

Two operations were made in cases of patients who fell from operating tables.

Chief Coroner Denies 'Hide-Errors' Order

PALMERSTON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. H. Beatty Cotnam, Ontario's chief coroner, Wednesday night denied charges that his predecessor, the late Dr. Smirle Lawson, ordered coroners to cover up doctor's mistakes.

"I was a coroner under Dr. Lawson for 15 years and never knew him to suppress information," he said.

Dr. Cotnam was commenting on a charge by Dr. Morton Shulman, Metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner, that Dr. Lawson blocked requests into deaths resulting from medical blunders.

Dr. Cotnam said several metro coroners told him Dr. Lawson had never instructed them not to hold inquests into deaths which could be due to negligence by doctors or hospital staff.

Blind Baby Died from Neglect

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday a four-month-old boy's death from pneumonia Jan. 21 resulted from a lack of normal home care.

The jury was told Lawrence Chong, only one of which could be explained by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Chong. Further evidence was that his parents were evidently unaware the baby was blind from birth.

Dr. Bruce Feaver, of Kapuskasing, Ont., who had treated the child for a broken arm, said Mr. Chong had explained the fracture occurred when Lawrence fell out of bed.

The Chongs moved to Toronto when the boy was 2½ months old.

Coroner Stephen Evelyn said the child might still be alive had he not been abused by his parents. He said the baby should have been removed from his home but there was no legal way that this could have been done.

A psychiatrist, Dr. John Armstrong, said Mrs. Chong is under psychiatric care at a Toronto hospital for depression. The jury recommended she remain under care and urged an investigation into the living conditions of the child's two-year-old brother.

Last-Minute Witness Called by Defence

DALLAS (AP)—A psychiatric battle over the mind of Jack Ruby was prolonged late Thursday when the defence said it would call a surprise last-minute witness today at Ruby's murder trial.

The man expected to have the last word in the case is Dr. Frederick A. Gibbs of Chicago, an authority on epilepsy—the condition the defence claims triggered off an insane black-out in Ruby last Nov. 24 during which he shot Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Each side has produced contradictory testimony as to whether the 32-year-old operator of a Dallas strip-tease joint was sane when he shot Oswald.

STATE ENDS CASE

The state closed its case late in the afternoon with the last of its battery of psychiatrists. Judge Joe B. Brown had told both sides that he wanted all testimony completed Thursday night.

However, the defence refused to close its case, contending Dr. Gibbs was on his way here after a previous refusal to testify. It demanded the right to put him on the witness stand today, and Brown reluctantly agreed.

The trial recessed overnight after testimony by Alice Nichols, company with Ruby off and on for 11 years, and they had discussed marriage on several occasions.

She described Ruby as emotional and given to fits of dependency, but conceded under cross-examination that she had never seen in him any indications of insanity.

One of the final state witnesses was Dr. Francis M. Forster, professor of neurology at the University of Wisconsin. He testified he had studied brain wave tracings of Ruby and that he found no evidence from them of epilepsy or organic brain damage—factors the defence has claimed led the defendant to black out before he shot Oswald.

CALLED INSANE

Dr. Walter Bromberg, clinical director of Pinewood Psychiatric Hospital in Katonah, N.Y., was among the last of the defence experts to call Ruby insane. District Attorney Henry M. Wade asked on cross-examination:

"Did he have a feeling of wanting to be a hero?"

"A martyr, rather," replied Bromberg. "He had a definite messianic trend, wanting to rescue the Jewish people from the charge that they didn't have guts."

"He told you that he wanted to prove that Jews did have guts, didn't he?" Wade went on.

"Yes, he said that several times," replied Bromberg.

Blast Rips Freighter, One Killed

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The hold of the Honduran freighter United exploded Thursday in the Mississippi River, killing one man. Another man was missing and feared drowned.

Firemen found the body of Edward Davis in the smoke-filled hold of the vessel, which was being cleaned with chemicals before being loaded with grain.

Ship Explosion Probe

Union Protested Lack of Safety

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle agent of the National Maritime Union had to threaten to "shut down" the tanker Bunker Hill because of "unsafe practices," a crew member testified yesterday.

Boatswain John Cribbins made the charge at the Coast Guard hearing into the explosion and sinking of the vessel off Whidby Island last Friday, with loss of five lives.

STORY CONFIRMED

Richard Glynn, NMU agent at Seattle, confirmed Cribbins' testimony. Glynn protested strongly after Cribbins told him waste oil was drained onto the deck, instead of being piped in to a waste tank, or other empty tanks.

Other witnesses Wednesday were Able Seaman James Shea, who worked with Cribbins washing down tanks on the tanker's voyage from Tacoma towards Anacortes, and George Olsen.

SPRINKLER USELESS

Olsen testified the sprinkler system in the cargo tanks was so badly corroded it no longer worked, and added:

"The ship was old and wasn't kept up."

Olsen expressed belief a falling piece of pipe or anode (small pieces of magnesium attached about the ship to ease corrosion from electrolysis) could have touched off a spark.

HULL PARTS FOUND

Meantime, the two sections of the Bunker Hill's hull were located Wednesday by use of sonar device. The bow and stern sections were three-fourths of a mile apart in 200 feet of water, in Rosario Strait, southwest of Anacortes.

'What Can Go Wrong?'

Romans Start Work On New Subway Line

ROME (UPI)—Officials Thursday formally inaugurated work on the eternal city's new subway line. Romans immediately started speculating on what would go wrong with it.

If all goes well, they should be able to ride the 10-kilometer (six mile) subway line from the central railway station to the area near the Cinecitta film studios.

But when it comes to subway things have seldom gone well in Rome. One result is that traffic in Rome's complicated downtown streets is getting even more chaotic.

The city's first and, at present only, subway opened in 1955—17 years after work began and 40 years after the idea was approved.

When the $20,000,000 underground went into action it was dubbed "the world's craziest" because it whisked passengers from the railway station to an empty meadow on the outskirts of town. However, the eternal city eventually caught up with its subway and the meadow is now full of buildings.

India Denounces Bid For Bomb

China's 'Mad Urge'

GENEVA (AP)—The Indian government denounced Red China Thursday for trying to develop its own nuclear bomb and called on the rest of the world to prevent it.

Vishnu C. Trivedi, newly-appointed Indian delegate to the 17-nation disarmament conference, avoided naming the Peking regime but his meaning was unmistakable. Other delegates seemed startled by his speech, which swept aside a long-standing taboo against any discussion on the China issue on the conference floor.

MEASURES ASKED

In his first speech to the conference, Trivedi called on delegates to "negotiate measures calculated to prevent . . . unhealthy developments which would make our ultimate task much more difficult, if not impossible."

He deplored the lack of progress in the two-year-old conference and added:

MAD URGE

"While we are discussing problems of disarmament, there are some people who are possessed by the mad urge to have their own bomb. They would call it the Asian bomb. It is our duty, and the duty of the international community, to endeavor to prevent this proliferation of nuclear weapons. Otherwise, the world will never forgive us."

He did not say what the international community could do to stop Red China going ahead with the development of its own nuclear bomb.

It was the first time since the limited nuclear test-ban treaty was signed in Moscow Aug. 5, 1963, that a delegate had risen on the conference floor to denounce Red China for its refusal to accept the treaty.

Trivedi rejected as unrealistic the Chinese view that general world disarmament can be carried out only at a single stroke and accused the Chinese Communists, in effect, of blocking disarmament and arms control measures with their "solitary defiance."

New Spy Case Hinted in Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The newspaper Stockholms-Tidningen said Thursday Swedish security police have uncovered another spy case of "important proportions" involving the navy.

Superintendent Per-Gunnar Vingbo, head of the security police, said, however, that "no other spy affair than the Wennerstrom case is known for the time being." Minister of Defence Sven Andersson said he had no information of a new military spy affair.

But observers here said the first official disclaimers lacked force.

One informed source, with an eye to the visit here in June by Premier Khrushchev, said: "This is no suitable moment for the government to disclose a new shocking spy affair."

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

The American eagle came tearing up the river on the lam with a crow striding him, diving again and again at the fugitive's pale knob. The eagle sat down on an oyster bar—not like one in Grand Central but just a shell-covered mud-bank—and his tormentor lit a few feet away, standing guard like the Shore Patrol herding a drunk back to the ship.

Ranger Dick Stokes, who helps patrol the 1,400,000 acres of jungle and water in the Everglades National Park, steered the boat over for a closer view. It was a young eagle, full-sized or thereabouts, but with the baby-plumage of his head just bleaching out to pure white.

"Look at him," a guy said, "posing for a 25-cent piece. Where's the ribbon reading, 'E Pluribus Unum'?"

When the boat got close, the eagle took flight and the crow chased him, dive-bombing enthusiastically, until they settled on separate limbs of an old dead tree on the far shore.

"The noblest of American birds," a guy said, "symbol of our nation's majesty, and one stinking black crow chases him off the reservation."

Emperor Watson

The Ranger steered up on the Chatham River, twisting through tangled wilds. Around a bend the left bank changed character. Instead of mangrove and gum and buttonwood trees, there were royal palm, a dark row of avocado trees, and a cluster of guavas in the overgrown ruin of an estate.

"That was Emperor Watson's place," Dick Stokes said.

"Emperor Watson? Who's he?"

"Well, well," Dick said and told the story. Ed Watson was a tough party who came down to this southwestern corner of the Florida peninsula in the 1890's. He killed a guy in Key West and there was some grumbling about it, so he took out for the Cherokee Strip. There he fell in with Belle Starr, the distinguished lady outlaw, but he must have fallen out with her, too, because he wound up killing her and came back to Florida.

After one killing and another, he set up on a plantation at Chatham Bend where he raised sugar cane for syrup and grew garden truck for the New York market. He prospered, partly because he imported labor from Key West and kept his overhead down by killing hands who wanted to be paid.

As a murderer, he didn't discriminate particularly. Among others, he killed an old doll named Hannah Smith, anchored her body with the engine block of an old car, and pitched her into the water. What was left of Hannah was inconsiderate enough to work free of the rope, float up, and get discovered by a colony of clam diggers. There was talk.

About this time a worker on the Watson place, name of Luke Short, got loose and joined up with the clam diggers. They all came over to Chokoloskee Island looking for Watson and Watson came to Chokoloskee looking for Short. When Watson came along in his boat, the whole town of Chokoloskee was waiting on the dock at Smallwood's trading post.

"For a while the crowd stood there transfixed," Dick Stokes said. "This was just after the hurricane of October, 1910, and Mrs. Smallwood had sold Watson some shotgun shells soaked by the storm. She told him they'd been wet and said that if they weren't satisfactory she'd replace them."

"He aimed his shotgun into the crowd and clicked both barrels and both misfired. He pulled a pistol and Luke Short shot him. Then everybody opened fire. They opened him up, sort of like a lace curtain."

Nature Study

The best went on, into Houston Bay and Oyster Bay and Bay Sunday, down Crooked River and Lopez River and finally to Smallwood's landing on Chokoloskee Island.

"There's one of the rarest and most beautiful birds we have," Dick Stokes had said, "the swallow-tailed kite. Lives up here three or four months a year but nests and raises its young in South America. That's the little blue heron and that is the osprey, the fish hawk that people call an eagle. You know that bird? It's an immature yellow-breasted night heron, and there's the white ibis, called a curlew here by the natives. It's the greatest delicacy in the world."

He did not add, though he could have, that the bird is also known as Chokoloskee chicken and the standing fine of $500 has not yet silenced the peacher's gun.

Smallwood's Store still operates seven days a week, selling swamproot tonic for what ails you, butter churns, and costume jewelry fashioned of pearls found inside the head of catfish.

The store is a wooden building, once barn-red but now sun-blistered, set on 10-foot pilings above the tide. Underneath there's a whole clutter of rusted engine blocks suitable for sinking dead bodies.

Winless Wallaces Worry for Wally

Normally the prospect of playing soccer against Vancouver Wallace is enough to make a coach choke in anticipation. But Wally Milligan has a long memory, and so he worries.

Wallaces are the talk of the Pacific Coast Soccer League, and most of the things being said aren't very nice. In 17 games this season Wallaces have managed one point, on a 1-1 draw with New Westminster Royals. In 17 games they have scored 11 goals and allowed 55.

"It scares me," says Milligan, whose Victoria United club must meet this awesome soccer machine Saturday at 2 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park. "It was just like this last year. We needed the points, they didn't, and they came over here and beat us for their first win of the season."

THEY NEED 'EM

Milligan is right about one thing. United needs the points. Fourth place is by no means secure, because although United leads North Shore by four points, the Shores have a game in hand and one more shot at United before the season ends.

United's lineup will be about the same as usual, with George Paul at centre-forward, flanked by Russ Ball and Ash Wakel with Henry Vanderhorst and Jim Clarke on the wings. Barry Sadler will be in goal with Ron Pedersen and Jim Hawthorne at fullback and George Wright, Bobby Marx and Ollie Owens on the half line.

Ten minutes after he took the field, he put a ball in his own net.

In Sunday's first division district league play, Brodies and Gorge Hotel meet at Heywood Park. Scottish takes on Price and Smith at Central Park and Wests play Kickers at Topaz Park.

In the second division it will be Navy vs. Kings at HMCS Naden and Vikings vs. Warriors at Gordon Head.

Teacher Gives Rocks Lessons on Condition

Victoria Shamrocks are launching on a campaign to get into condition, and for the first time in several seasons they appear dead serious about it. In the past, Shamrock conditioning sessions have consisted of jog-trots, a few half-hearted push-ups, and a dead run to get to the showers before the hot water runs out.

This, in part, has accounted

'That's Not Age, That's Experience'

"If they think they're going to beat us by running us off the court, they're sadly mistaken."

This was Jim Mitchell, manager of the U.S. Thomas Cup team which faces Japan in the zone final tonight and tomorrow night at Victoria Racquet Club.

Mitchell was commenting on the feeling that the Japanese team's youth gives it the edge in this series. He doesn't believe it.

"Maybe our boys are a bit older," he admitted, "but we've got a lot of experience on our side and I'll tell you this: our players are in shape and will run with anybody."

"They'll have to beat us with badminton, not with endurance."

Four matches are scheduled tonight, with the first starting at 7:30. Only one match will be played at a time, all at centre court, giving crowds at the Amphion Street hall good vantage points from any seat.

STILL SEATS?

Late last night there were still reserved seats available for tonight's play, and rush seats will be sold at the door.

Reserved tickets are on sale at Hocking and Forbes and at the Mayfair Sporting Goods in McFair Plaza.

Five more matches are scheduled tomorrow, with the winning team going on to inter-zone playdowns in Japan for the right to challenge world champion Indonesia.

Unknown Duo Out in Front Balding Close

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—A young man from Carolina and another from West Virginia took shares Thursday of the first-round lead in the $25,000 St. Petersburg Open.

Bob Harrison and Mike Krak each had five-under-par 67s.

"I had the wedge going," said Harrison, who played a superb chipping and putting game over the 6,215-yard Lakewood Country Club course. He took only 26 putts, the lowest number in any round of the 10 PGA tournaments played this year.

Toronto's touring pro, Al Balding, came in at 68, one stroke off the pace in a four-way tie with defending champion Raymond Floyd, Rex Baxter Jr. and veteran Mike Souchat.

... an 8 p.m. start for all games is going to take a lot of pressure off travelling clubs. It could also boost attendance, since games will be over by 10 and parents can take youngsters on school nights.

Slugging Dodger Outfielder May Decide to Quit Baseball

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Towering Frank Howard, Los Angeles Dodgers' slugger of long-distance homers, was reported Thursday to be quitting baseball.

The six-foot-seven, 245-pounder, regarded as the mightiest hitter in the game today, wrote a letter to Dodgers general manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi indicating he was through.

Later, talking to reporters from his home in Green Bay, Wis., he said there is a chance he will stay in the game—if certain "personal problems" can be adjusted.

"This is a personal problem which I am not free to discuss," he said. "I can't imagine how my letter to Mr. Bavasi leaked out."

"As soon as I have taken care of some legalities here, I will go to Vero Beach and meet with Mr. Bavasi."

"I do not even know myself what I will do. There is a possibility I might quit baseball but there's a chance I might not."

Bavasi said in an interview that Howard had written him, saying "I have found

FRANK HOWARD ... has problems that money is not the cure to all ills. I have discussed this with my family and they realize they will have to make sacrifices. But I know they will be much happier with me at home than to have me gone most of the time like I have been."

Howard's salary last year was $22,000 and the club estimated he has earned $148,000 from professional baseball, including a $108,000 bonus after his 1958 graduation from Ohio State.

The Dodgers brought Howard up to the majors in 1960.

He wasn't made a regular until July of last year. Riding the bench bothered him, and there has been speculation that he wanted to be traded so he could play regularly.

Howard had not signed a 1964 contract with the club. He had been excused from the first 11 days of spring training because of "personal problems."

Howard hit 28 home runs last year and 31 in 1962. He had 99 since joining the club in 1960, leading the club in this department since his arrival.

Bonspiel Bowling Solid Hit As Entry Reaches 40 Teams

Success for the idea of bowling bonspiels seems assured as entries for the first annual Vancouver Island tenpin bonspiel, sponsored by The Daily Colonist in co-operation with Mayfair Lanes, start to pour in.

Continuing to be a feature is the number of distaff bowlers the event is attracting. The ladies are taking full advantage of the rare chance to bowl against the men in competition which provides a chance for every team regardless of averages.

Scratch for the four-player teams is set at 800 pins and there is a handicap based on 70 per cent of the combined team average and the scratch figure.

Yesterday's entry brought one complete distaff team and three more mixed teams, two with two female keggers and one with one.

Entered as Mayfair Flower Shop are Bonita Loo, Hazel McLeary, Irene Moore and Freda Peacock. For J. & J. Transfer it's Alex and Eleanor Holowachuk and Fred and Eva Nelson while Murray and Margaret Robertson and Harry and Ev Donaldson have decided to enter as the D.R.s. Margaret Rummney is by herself with Ed Rummney, Bob Kirker and Neil Clarke as Robbins Fleet Esso.

Eric Harbinson, president of the Victoria Tenpin Association, has entered a team from the Dockyard Recreation Association and has Kelly Comerford, Al Gellert and Alex Quinn as teammates.

Sunbeams and Bel Air Cab-inets look like two powerful quartets. Gary Bishop, Wilf Johnston, Molly Mapes and Gordie Bamford will bowl under the former label while Jack Fletcher, Vince Brown, Walt Davis and Harold Grant will seek the Colonist Trophy and the $400 that goes with it as the Bel Air Cabinets.

Veteran Roy Barnes will be with Mel Davison, Doug Ritchie and Ken Garland as Island Paint Distributors; George Sage, Ed Seymour, Gordon Fyle and Tom Harry will bowl as the Seven Ups; Howie McLaughlin, Cliff Olson, Harry Adams and Bill Donnelly as Independent Low Cost Food Markets; Rod Caddell, Pete Gillan and Eric and Karl Zwick as the Get Luckies; Joe Fletcher, Chuck Newbold, Jim Peterson and Alex Campbell as Burt's Restaurant and Cliff Rutledge, Lorne Whyte, Don Johnson and George Robbins as the Four Ways Market.

Entry forms are available at Mayfair Lanes and bowlers planning to take part are reminded of the special bonus of two free games for each team member if paid-up entry is made before Sunday, given to facilitate the checking of averages.

To be eligible, bowlers must have bowled a minimum of 21 games before Feb. 8 in sanctioned ABC or WIBC league competition. Their averages will be taken as of Feb. 8 and for those bowling in more than one league, the highest average is to be used.

"If I try to comeback it must be in time, and I think the time is now," the newspaper quotes the Swede as saying.

"I've never liked braggers. It would be a pleasure to give Clay a treat."

Johansson is further quoted as saying the match had been suggested by Edwin Ahlquist, his former adviser and a Swedish promoter.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

The federal fisheries department may take a leaf out of British Columbia fisheries regulations to clamp down on the sale of sports-caught salmon.

It has long been suspected that some sports fishermen sell the fish they catch in the sports-fishing-only Saanich Inlet waters. There is little doubt some sports fishermen in outside waters sell their fish, or get licensed puffer fishermen to sell their fish for them.

There has been little the federal fisheries department could do about it—because there has been nothing in the federal regulations to stop it.

Under B.C. regulations persons are restricted from buying, selling and exposing for sale any game fish caught by angling in non-tidal waters.

In proposed fishing law changes for 1964, it is suggested there should also be a regulation prohibiting the sale of sports-caught fish taken in tidal waters.

It will probably come as a surprise to many sportsmen that there was a loophole. There is no doubt in our minds that all organized salmon fishing clubs will support the new proposal.

They have until May 10 to write to area fisheries director Rod Hourston to state approval or disapproval of proposed fishing law changes.

Other proposals would include a step to conserve type in Alberni Inlet by cutting the daily limit to two salmon, from the existing four a day. This is the same catch limits as at the Gold, Burman, Rivers Inlet and Phillips Arm.

Another proposal would give the director authority to place an emergency closure on fresh-water fishing for conservation of salmon stocks.

Because steelhead provide a greater economic return to the sports fishery than the commercial fishery, and because steelhead predominate in gillnet catches in the Fraser River prior to March 15, it is proposed to prohibit gillnetting in the Fraser prior to March 15 each year.

Sunday will be Junior Day at the fish and game club grounds at Goldstream.

All juniors who took the junior safety training course last fall and those who graduated this February are invited to the Free Shooter rifle range. A car pool will move off from Stan Williams Hunting and Fishing (opposite the post office) at 1 p.m. Sunday and parents with cars are asked to take part.

The junior program is mainly financed by an outdoor movie sponsored by the fish and game club each year. This year's movie will be at the Victoria High School auditorium, Friday and Saturday, March 20 and 21 at 8 p.m., and will be Roy D. Clark's The Last Wilderness, featuring giant Kodiak bears fishing the white Dall sheep, goats, bull moose, caribou, black bear, and mountain grizzly of the north.

Blueback and big grilse fishing in Saanich Inlet has been excellent with the scrappy little salmon taking almost any fly or lure with red in it.

Hot spots have been just past Goldstream Island in Finlayson Arm, near the White Lady and the Stone House and on to McKenzie Bay and from The Boulder to Willis Point.

Indian Bay is giving up the odd spring and has been full of feed working its way to the Finlayson Arm spawning grounds. Jacksprings have been deep in the Deep Hole-Quarry Bay waters.

A few springs have been taken in Sidney waters off Coal Island and Piers Island. Nanaimo has been good for blues in outside waters with eight to 16 ounces of weight required. Winds have made fishing tough in Oak Bay to Sooke waters, but some have been caught in Oak Bay off Fiddle Reef. Port San Juan is producing a few springs. There are blues off Chemainus.

Low rivers are rising slowly and may be good for the weekend. Cowichan has slowed up a little but they are still getting a few steelies under the lower bridges and in the Riverbottom. Trout fishing in the river is getting better all the time.

Some trout are being taken at the lower end of Cowichan Lake. Samoset Lake has been giving nice trout fishing for bait anglers. Access area to Quamichan, at the end of Indian Road, has been gated by the land owner.

Up-Island steelheading is good in the Salmon River in all reaches below the big jam, and in the Oyster River. In Little Qualicum steelhead and trout are coming in with each high tide and are being taken in lower reaches.

Shallow lakes are starting to produce trout, but the turn to colder weather slowed up fishing.

Wins Bonus

Forty-year-old Art Wall, who won three of four tournaments and was third in the other, has won the Caribbean Golf Trophy and $1,300 bonus. Second, with 88 points to Wall's 113, was George Knudson of Toronto. He received $1,100 bonus.

Mikita Seems Set For Scoring Title

Unless teammate Bobby Hull goes on one of his spurges, 23-year-old Stan Mikita is all but certain of his first National Hockey League scoring championship. And he could also lead the league in penalties.

The Chicago Black Hawks centre starts the last four games of the season with a five-point bulge on Hull, who is seven points ahead of the slowed-down Jean Beliveau of the slowed-down Montreal Canadiens.

Mikita, one of three players to have more than 30 goals, leads in assists with 49. His 140 minutes in penalties is less than a major league leader Vic Hadfield of New York, also a forward.

Hull's chances for a new goal-scoring record has just about disappeared. He needs 11 in four games to break the record of 50 he shares with Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion. But Hull

Army Orders Clay to Take Another Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army has ordered another pre-induction test of world heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay.

The army said re-examination is necessary "because results of initial tests were inconclusive."

A review of the examination given to Clay Jan. 24 at Coral Gables, Fla., has been completed and the army has determined that a new examination is needed, it said.

Loom as Cup Threat

Wings Are No Stepping Stone

Up until recently it seemed that the loser in the Chicago-Montreal tussle for the National Hockey League championship would at least derive some benefits from losing.

While the winners took the prestige and extra cash, they

They stayed in the scrap for the show position last night by beating Boston Bruins, 2-1, for their fourth win in their last five games. Result left them two points behind the Leafs, who have the added advantage of a game in hand but have to face the Wings in the last two games of the season.

Detroit's "big three" of Gordie Howe, Terry Sawchuk and Norm Ullman was in the spotlight again last night as the Wings outplayed the improved Bruins.

The latter seemed the easier road to the final but things have suddenly changed. It is no longer at all certain that the Wings won't finish third and tackle the league champions. But no matter which of the top two clubs get them, the Wings are acting as if they are not to be the expected set-up.

Ullman, who missed nine games because of injuries, took a pass from Howe to tie the score in the first period, then set up Howe for the winning goal in the second period.

Sawchuk was at his best in the Detroit goal, making a number of brilliant saves in a game that was close to a large extent because Boston's Ed Johnston, who had to contend with 36 shots, was also having himself a good night at the other end.

The only shot that Sawchuk missed became rookie Gary Dorroh's 12th goal when the Wings lost a protest. Ullman's goal made it seven successive seasons that the often under-rated centreman has scored at least 20 times and was the 194th of his NHL career.

Howe's goal was his 24th of the season and 564th of his NHL career. He needs but one more to make it 14 seasons in which he has scored at least 25 times.

First Period: 1-Boston, Dorroh (28) (Johnson, McCard, Ullman, 12:00). 2-Detroit, Ullman (30) (Beliveau, Howe, 17:00). Penalties—Boston 0:00, Ullman 14:00, Kennedy 18:00.

Second Period: 1-Detroit, Howe (24) (Ullman) 9:30. Penalties—Henderson 2:30, Mask 8:00, Gendron and Kennedy 10:00, Barkley (two minors) 12:00.

Third Period: No scoring. Penalty—Hodgson 7:04. Shots: Boston 36, Detroit 37. Goals: Boston 1, Detroit 2.

the 9.8 hp Merc 110 with competitors' 9.5 hp fishing motor Merc 110 is the lightest outboard in the 10 hp class ever built. Yet it performs like a 12 hp, trails like a 3 hp and weighs like a 5 hp outboard.

Merc 110 balances perfectly on the transom. You don't have to lean over the back of the boat to clamp it on...risking the chance of falling in the drink. Merc power plants are high enough to be at least as high as the transom. Unlike competitive outboards, it keeps its power dry.

Merc 110 has a fitted powerhead that prevents fuel "pudding" at any speed. It idles and trolls smoothly without flooding or misfiring on "raw" fuel. The fixed-jet carburetor is on the front of the motor toward the boat...not on the back. You don't have to get in the water when normal service is required.

Merc 110 has a unique Glide-Angle design that lets it slide up and over unsmooth obstacles...over sandbars and through shallows. No need to lift it by hand. It corrects itself when you hit deep water again. There's no protruding nose on the front to harvest weeds, snag rocks or blow sand. It has no sheer pins...a live rubber safety clutch protects the prop on impact.

Merc 110 has a Jet-Prop exhaust system. The exhaust is fired through the center of the propeller hub...burying the fumes, and with it the sound, far behind the boat. The exhaust fills the vacuum pocket that forms in back of propeller hubs, resulting in increased thrust and improved breathing of the engine.

There are many other features to COMPARE on a Merc 110...and your Mercury dealer will be happy to have you make the comparison. See him soon. See how you get more RUN for your money with Mercury...100, 85, 65, 50, 35, 20, 9.8, 6 and 3.9 hp outboards and MarCruiser Stern Drives...110 to 310 hp gasoline; 60 and 100 hp diesel.

Opponent, Referee Scored By Griffith's Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was absolutely disgraceful," said the co-manager of welterweight champion Emile Griffith Thursday on their return from Rome.

"I never saw anything like it before," said Gil Clancy, in referring to the no-contest fight in Rome Wednesday night between Griffith and Argentina's Juan Carlos Duran.

Referee Fernando Pica, after consulting with the three judges, ended the scheduled 10-rounder in the seventh round. Fans, angered by the dull contest, fired bottles, oranges, shoes and garbage into the ring.

The referee said the non-title bout was called off because of the "intemperance of the crowd."

"The referee was as responsible as Duran for what happened," said Clancy. "Firstly, Duran is a tall, skinny guy about six feet compared with Emile's five-foot-seven. Secondly, he was scared to death and ran all night.

TRIED TO FIGHT

"Emile tried to make a fight of it. The way the other guy was running the only way Emile could do it was to get close enough and bang away to the body. But every time he closed in, the referee would stop him, hit him on the head, and indicate Emile was betting. He didn't butt once. The referee must have hit Emile on the head 50 times. And that was the only time Emile got hit in the fight—by the referee. . . . "The fans didn't really start throwing a lot of stuff into the ring until the referee suddenly ended the fight. Before that it was only a few paper cups and things. But when he stopped it, you should have seen the stuff they threw in there."

Clancy said Griffith was paid in full for the fight.

The newcomer is Bob Hucklebridge, a 220-pound guard from Louisiana State University. The veteran involved is tackle Roger Nelson, who was a playing coach last season.

Nelson has been with the Eskimos since 1954 and is a naturalized Canadian citizen.

Make up your mind slowly. Take a full 60 seconds.

A full minute may be longer than you ordinarily take over one sip of whisky. Take that long with Time. The whisky in the hourglass bottle gives you a lot to think about.

The taste is light, warm, smooth. You'll find you have never known a rye like this.

Think about the taste of this gentle whisky. Think about the taste of the whisky you usually buy. Think about how they compare.

It takes a long time to change a man's mind about whiskies. All we ask is one minute.

Alberta Tops Legion's Curling Final

CALGARY (CP) — Alberta, represented by Dunc Grant's Calgary rink, remained undefeated in the Royal Canadian Legion curling championship Thursday by edging Newfoundland, 7-6, for a fifth straight win.

Saskatchewan, represented by Gordon Noble of Kindersley, stayed in second place by defeating Manitoba, 17-9, for a 4-1 record after five draws.

Ontario, Manitoba and Prince Edward Island were tied for third place with 3-3 records. Howie Christopherson of British Columbia, a 7-11 loser to Prince Edward Island Thursday, is 2-3.

Ex-Cougar Recovering

George Ranieri, 28-year-old leftwinger who played for Victoria Cougars in the 1956/57 season, is reported recovering satisfactorily in a Providence, R.I., hospital after brain surgery.

He was injured on Feb. 29 in an American Hockey League game against Springfield when his head hit the ice after he had been knocked down by a Springfield defenceman.

A three-hour operation removed a blood clot from his brain.

You seldom hear of this floor wax! [know why?]

Linogloss floor wax is made by Armstrong to wax Corlon vinyl floors (also made by Armstrong).

But Corlon is a practical vinyl floor and it seldom needs waxing.

So Linogloss has had little chance to prove its worth in homes where Corlon is installed.

As for Corlon itself — it's the revolutionary vinyl floor for people who are determined to live gracefully.

Corlon designs are all originals and exclusively Armstrong. The beauty is protected from wear because the colours go through to the backing. The design can't wear off — ever. Nor can Corlon be marred by household spills like food, coffee, perfume, grease, even alcohol.

Corlon lightens your housework. A quick once-over with a damp mop keeps it sparkling. The reason? Corlon's vinyl surface resists dust and dirt.

Seven Corlon stylings have exclusive alkali resistant, Hydrocord backing and can be installed in any room, even in most downstairs playrooms directly on the concrete.

Corlon comes in long wide rolls and gives your room a wall-to-wall effect with a minimum of barely visible seams.

We'll send you a free sample of Corlon and colourful booklets showing styles and colourings of all Armstrong Corlon floors. Write — Armstrong Cork Canada Ltd., Dept. A, Post Office Box 919, Montreal, Quebec.

Outspoken Jurist Retires —But Not for Long

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Joseph Thorson retires today as president of the Exchequer Court of Canada after a distinguished career as a barrister, soldier, teacher, politician and jurist.

One of the most controversial judges to occupy office in Canada, Mr. Justice Thorson reaches the compulsory retirement age of 75 for Exchequer Court judges Sunday. However, today is the last day that he will preside over the court.

The tall outspoken jurist of Icelandic origin, who has never hesitated to express his views on controversial issues, has no intention of slipping into oblivion in retirement. He's already made plans to establish a law practice in Ottawa and intends to continue voicing his views on public issues on which he has firm convictions.

When Mr. Justice Thorson, a 1910 Manitoba Rhodes scholar, leaves office Sunday he will have served as Exchequer Court president for nearly 21½ years, from Oct. 6, 1942, to March 15, 1964. This period is about two months short of the record established by Mr. Justice E. R. Angers, who served from Feb. 1, 1932, to Oct. 1, 1953.

One of the most controversial court cases in which he was involved related to federal government expropriations of property.

MAKES QUERY

In a 1959 judgment, he questioned the legality of government expropriations. He did so contrary to his own opinion that the government had acted legally in order that an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court of Canada for a final ruling on steps which must be followed in expropriation cases. The Supreme Court later validated the procedures followed by the government.

Mr. Justice Thorson practised law in Winnipeg before the First World War and served overseas as an army captain from 1916 to 1919. He was dean of the Manitoba law school from May, 1921, to September, 1926, when he resumed law practice in Winnipeg.

Mr. Justice Thorson was elected to the House of Commons as a Liberal in 1926, defeated in 1930 and re-elected in 1935 and 1940. In June, 1941, he was named minister of national war services in the cabinet of prime minister Mackenzie King, a post he held until he was appointed to the Exchequer Court.

Stiff Law Demanded

VANCOUVER (CP)—A couple whose son died in a California car accident left here Thursday to join a campaign seeking better drunk-driving laws in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Malkin of Vancouver said they will arrive at Stanford University near Palo Alto about Sunday.

"I'll stand on street corners until we have enough support to see the governor," Mr. Malkin said.

Christopher Malkin, 22, UBC graduate at Stanford, was killed in November, along with fellow student John Barth, 25.

Their car was struck by another vehicle driven by a drinking driver who was sentenced to 12 months in jail. His licence was not suspended.

Body 'Spares' 10 Years Away

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Minneapolis surgeon says successful transplants of human organs from heart to kidney is likely only a decade away.

Dr. Richard C. Lillehei, assistant professor of surgery at the University of Minnesota, said yesterday in an interview: "Within 10 years we hope to be able to transplant hearts, lungs, livers, spleens, stomachs, intestines and endocrine glands such as the thyroid, adrenal glands, ovaries and testicles."

Dr. Lillehei, here to deliver a lecture on organ transplants, said the big unconquered problem is to prevent the recipient's system from rejecting a new organ.

Already, he said, it is technically feasible for surgeons to replace all organs except the pancreas with new ones but the problem of rejection remains.

For example the human body will reject an alien kidney in seven to 10 days without the help of drugs or radiation treatment, which delay rejection.

"We hope to solve the problem of rejection within 10 years," Dr. Lillehei said.

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill, who will be 90 in November, visited his "favorite club," the House of Commons, where he took his usual seat. He has been showing up regularly at Parliament since he announced last year that this session would be his last.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

The Winnipeg-born jurist looks forward to resuming his professional standing as a practicing lawyer, specializing in patents, income tax and expropriation matters. These were the three main fields in which he distinguished himself as a judge.

"I'm going to miss my associations as a judge," Mr. Justice Thorson said in an interview. "But I look forward to resuming practice as a lawyer as another adventure in life."

NEW EFFORTS

He said that as a practicing lawyer he will be free to make new efforts to advance the rule of law and the cause for world peace.

"There isn't going to be any retirement," he said. "I'll be in my law office Monday morning ready for clients."

The two most controversial issues in which Mr. Justice Thorson was involved while on the bench were South Africa's racial segregation policies and Canadian acquisition of nuclear weapons.

In statements made outside the court, he attacked apartheid as a blight on civilization and urged Prime Minister Pearson to renounce the use of nuclear weapons. Canada, he said, "must not take part in this insane nuclear arms race."

"I'm still opposed to the use, possession or control of nuclear weapons by Canadian forces whether at home or abroad," he said in the Thursday interview.

SHOT BY BANDITS

One of Mr. Justice Thorson's adventures in life occurred in Rio de Janeiro in December, 1952. He was wounded in both thighs and suffered a sprained ankle when he and Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada were attacked by bandits.

There are towns in Tibet where no V.O. is sold. But these are greatly outnumbered by the cities, towns and hamlets in 130 countries where V.O. is sold. In fact, more Seagram's V.O. is sold throughout the world than any other whisky exported from any country.

Why? We think it must be the quality of the product. The mellow flavour of Seagram's V.O. combines brilliance of taste with lightness of tone—and this balance of good taste never varies. As a result, V.O. is enjoyed by a world of people from Karachi to Killisnoe. So remember... V.O., V.O., wherever you are!

Move On, Said Army

Arctic Trekkers
Away from Base

OTTAWA (CP)—Bjorn Staib and his group of Norwegian adventurers now are established some five miles away from the Canadian Army signal base at Alert in the high Arctic, a northern affairs department official said Thursday night.

The Norwegians are in the north to attempt a 600-mile overland trek to the North Pole—the first such attempt since Admiral Peary's expedition of 1908. Alert, also Canada's most northerly weather station, is on the northern coast of Ellesmere Island in the eastern Arctic.

TWO PLANES

Staib and his men set off a flurry of excitement Tuesday night when they arrived in two Hercules transport planes at the base—which contains classified equipment used in communications and weather research—and announced their intention of remaining there for some time.

Station commander Jim Sherry was reported to have told the Norwegians to move their dogs and equipment off the base within 24 hours. Staib protested this was impossible and said he would ask the Norwegian embassy in Ottawa to have the Canadian government rescind the order.

NO ULTIMATUM

In Ottawa, a northern affairs official said he knew of no ultimatum. He said he did not know how long Staib was on the base before moving on.

The official said Staib's original plans filed with the Canadian government called for him to proceed immediately to Ward Hunt Island, some 100 miles north of Alert, to set up headquarters there before beginning his dash for the pole.

Later, however, Staib said it was impossible to follow this plan and asked permission to land at Alert for a few hours either to change into smaller aircraft or push off by dog sled.

Owned by English Town?

Labrador Wants To Buy Itself

BRISTOL (CP)—Labrador wants to "buy itself back" from Bristol, England.

A telegram signed "H. Hewko," who says he is a bank manager in Labrador City, contains a "firm offer of purchase."

The telegram was sent to Bristol University students who recently found an old history book establishing "fairly conclusively" that Bristol technically owns Labrador.

They wrote to Prime Minister Pearson offering to surrender the territory for £50

($150). In his telegram, Hewko asks to be given priority over Pearson.

"We will certainly follow this up," said Phil Aris, spokesman for Bristol law students who discovered letters patent from Henry VII granting all lands discovered by explorer John Cabot to "his heirs and deputies."

Bristol Corporation disclaimed any territorial ambitions in Canada. But if the deal "by some frightening mischance" went through, it would administer Labrador as efficiently as it did Bristol.

No Deductions

Magazine Tax Plan
Seen by Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's plan to bolster the economic position of Canadian periodicals by denying income tax deductions for advertising placed in foreign publications aimed specifically at the Canadian market was presented to Parliament Thursday.

Prime Minister Pearson filed a pair of resolutions for study later in the session amending the Income Tax Act and the Customs Tariff.

NEXT DEC. 31

One denies deductibility from corporate income for the expense of advertisements placed after next Dec. 31 in non-Canadian periodicals and primarily directed to the Canadian market.

The other prohibits the importation of special issues of foreign periodicals which carry advertising directed to the Canadian market which does not appear in other issues of the same publication in its originating country.

EDITED HERE

The income tax resolution defines a Canadian periodical as one which has its editorial type set in Canada, is wholly printed in Canada and is edited in this country by Canadian residents.

The main clause of the income tax resolution says:

"In computing income, no deduction shall be made in respect of an otherwise deductible outlay or expense of an advertiser for advertising space that is used for an advertisement that is primarily directed to the Canadian market in any issue of a non-Canadian periodical publication dated after Dec. 31, 1964."

SIX DAYS

The resolution says periodicals include publications which are published at regular intervals of more than six days and less than 15 weeks and that are distributed as distinct publications or as supplements to a newspaper.

The definition exempts catalogues, newspapers, and publications encouraging fine arts, letters, scholarship or religion. A clause exempts Time Magazine and Reader's Digest Canadian editions which are edited and published in Canada.

To bring health and medical services to Canadians in remote parts of Canada, the Canadian Red Cross operates 38 outpost hospitals and nursing stations.

This Session

Action Demanded Soon
On Indian Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—The government now hopes to re-introduce in the latter stages of the current Parliamentary session its legislation to establish an Indian claims commission, Citizenship Minister Tremblay said Thursday.

The legislation was introduced late in the 1963 session and then withdrawn so that Indians and others interested could make representations to the government on it.

LAST MONTH

Since the current session opened last month, the government has been pressed for its intentions. Mr. Tremblay was replying to Eugene Rheault (PC—Northwest Territories) who sought assurance the legislation would be introduced shortly.

The minister said the government still is gathering the views of Indians and interested persons and hopes the bill, with any changes, will be presented in the latter part of the session.

MAKE REPORT

Did the minister intend to wait for 825 Indian reservations to make a report on their views of the proposed legislation "or are you going to take some action," Lawrence F. Kinet (PC—Macled) demanded. Speaker Alan Macnaughton intervened at that point and there was no answer.

City Unionists Seen Block To Strike End

A Vancouver union official all but said last night that officials of "one or two unions in Victoria" are the main remaining obstacles to an end to the B.C. shipyard strike.

David Chapman of Vancouver, chief negotiator for the unions in the strike, said that at a meeting with management representatives and B.C. chief conciliation officer Reg Clements yesterday the three Vancouver members of the union negotiating team "made a proposal that we feel there's a good chance of the companies accepting."

NOT ENDORSED

But he said some union officials in Victoria are apparently not prepared to recommend the proposal to the members of their unions and the two Victoria members of the negotiating team declined to endorse the proposal when the Vancouver union officials made it to Mr. Clements.

Mr. Chapman declined to say what the Vancouver unions' proposal is, but he said it differs substantially from both the unions' last offer and a unanimous conciliation board recommendation which was accepted by the companies before the strike began Feb. 5.

WITHOUT CONCURRENCE

One of the two Victoria members of the union negotiating team last night said it is correct that the Vancouver unions have made a proposal without the concurrence so far of the Victoria negotiators.

James McCouchy of the Boilermakers' Union, president of the Victoria Metal Trades Council, said last night that the spokesmen's committee for the Victoria unions was to meet today.

DISCUSS DEVELOPMENTS

He said the Victoria negotiators want to discuss developments with the Victoria unions before commenting on them.

J. W. Hudson, executive vice-president of Burrard Dry Dock, North Vancouver, last night said he was bewildered by yesterday's developments. "All I can say is that we're still talking."

PASS ON PROPOSAL

Mr. Chapman said last night that Mr. Clements will apparently pass along the proposal of the three Vancouver negotiators—Mr. Chapman, William Stewart and James Mead—to the companies and that Mr. Clements seems to feel the proposal is "close to an area of settlement."

Mr. Chapman said he was aware of the controversial nature of yesterday's developments but the jobs of 2,000 people are at stake.

MAKE RECOMMENDATION

He called on certain other union officials to "forgo their personal feelings" and make a recommendation to their members.

Meanwhile, a statement by Victoria Liberal MP David Gross, which reached Victoria yesterday, called on all parties to the dispute to resolve the strike before the danger to the west coast shipbuilding industry becomes any more acute.

He said continuation of the strike is hampering him and his west coast colleagues in their efforts to obtain government shipbuilding and ship repair work for B.C. yards.

Machinist Killed By Wheel

A machinist was instantly killed in Port Renfrew yesterday when an empty wheel flew apart and struck him on the head.

Sooke RCMP said John Grey Buntain, 65, was grinding a tool in B.C. Forest Products machine shop, where he was employed, at 10:45 a.m. when the wheel came apart.

Mr. Buntain, a bachelor, lived in the company bunk house, but his home is at 16994 Trans-Canada Highway, Cloverdale. He is survived by a sister in Cloverdale.

All Ready to Go

Being readied for shipment by grower William Mattick are fore-runner blooms, first of daffodil crop on Saanich Peninsula. Blooms will precede rest of daffodil crop, scheduled to reach peak in about 10 days.—(Bud Kinsman)

Good Daff Crop 'Nip-and-Tuck'

Saanich Peninsula daffodil growers are hoping for warmer weather to bring a reasonable portion of their crop to maturity before the peak shipping season begins in about 10 days.

"It's nip and tuck," the peninsula's largest daffodil grower, G. A. Vantreight, said last night.

He said that with warmer weather he thinks he can have 50 to 60 per cent of his crop harvested before the peak pre-Easter shipping season March 22 to 25.

Fifty to 60 per cent of his crop, he said, would mean 500,000 to 600,000 dozen daffodils, or 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 blooms. He said that it would be all right for him to have the remaining 40 per cent or so left in his fields for sale after Easter at lower prices.

But, he said, a cold spell could leave him with only about 30 per cent of his crop harvested by Easter, and "really cripple me."

He said he is optimistic and "by the law of averages" he feels the weather ought to turn warmer.

"We're gambling on normal or above-normal weather," Mr. Vantreight says he plans to have 300 to 400 pickers working in his fields the weekend of March 23-24.

William Mattick said his crop is "coming very, very slowly" and he hopes to have 50 to 60 per cent of his crop harvested for Easter.

Like Mr. Vantreight, he said he was concerned by recent cold weather and recent reports of snow on the Malahat mean Victoria now is inside "a great big refrigerator."

But he said he expects the slowness of this year's crops to be partly offset at least by higher prices.

Two Hurt as Car Skids

Two youths suffered head injuries and a third was injured when their car went out of control on West Saanich Road, skidded about 300 feet, crossed the road and travelled about 70 feet along a ditch, last night.

The two injured youths were in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

Robert Fletcher, 18, of 1073 Stelly's Cross Road, was thrown through the front windshield and apart from being badly shaken showed no other signs of injuries.

His brother, Richard, 19, a passenger in the rear seat, and Peter Shaw, 17, of 1596 Verling, were knocked unconscious and remained in the car.

Robert said he had no idea what happened. He was leaning over to adjust the car radio when he felt the car lurching around. He said he believed the car turned over.

It was right side up when police arrived.

"I realized it was out of control. Next thing I saw was the ditch," he said.

The engine was still running and the tires were smoking.

"I turned the engine off. I was afraid the car might catch fire," Robert said. Then he climbed up to the road and flagged a passing car to phone for an ambulance.

The three boys who are lifelong friends, only minutes before left the home of Peter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. B. Shaw, and were on their way to Victoria to see their girl friends.

Sooke School District

Neo-Nazi Hate Group Formed by Students

A small group of students conducted a neo-Nazi campaign in a school in Sooke School District 62 shortly before and after the Christmas holidays last year, it was disclosed last night.

Mrs. Imabelle Reader, publicity chairman of the Sooke school board, last night said five or six students in the school had formed a branch of an organization headed by Lincoln Rockwell of Arlington, Virginia, the commander of the American Nazi Party.

PROTECT INNOCENT

She said the identities of the students involved and of the particular school are being kept confidential in order to protect the reputations of innocent people.

She said that before Christmas the school's staff noticed swastikas, hate slogans and anti-Jewish propaganda being posted on school bulletin boards. These were promptly removed, but it became evident that more than just prankishness was involved in posting of the signs.

She said the activity of the group stepped up after the vacation and it tried to recruit more members among the student body.

Investigation by the staff disclosed the identities of the students involved and they were told political activity is not permitted in the schools, Mrs. Reader said.

She said that the students agreed—quite reluctantly in the case of one of them—to stop their activities within the school.

RCMP NOTIFIED

Mrs. Reader said the staff was to be commended for its actions, and that both officials of the education department and the RCMP have been notified of the matter.

"It's a very dangerous situation," she said. "It reminds me of what I've read of Germany in the pre-Hitler era."

Mrs. Reader said the group of students in the school was affiliated with an organization known as the Silver Shirts and with one known in the United States as the White Youth Corps and in Canada as Canadian Youth.

She said the literature distributed by the students attacked Jews, Communists and Negroes and identified these groups with one another.

OTHER MATTER

Among publications advertised in matter handled by the group was one called "The Thunderbolt" and other matter published by an organization called the Canadian Information Service which works out of Fitzherbert, Ont.

Mrs. Reader said she has heard "hearsay" reports of similar organizations in three Vancouver area schools.

City Sculptor To Get Degree

Eliza Mayhew, well-known Victoria sculptor, will receive her Master of Fine Arts degree at the University of Oregon's winter commencement convocation, to be held today at Eugene, Ore.

Museum Gets Go-Ahead

A five-year lease on the old courthouse in Bastion Square was granted by city council yesterday to the Maritime Museum of British Columbia.

The action confirms a previous informal agreement that the museum would obtain occupancy of the courthouse as soon as it ceases to be the temporary city hall at the end of this year.

$10,000 GRANT

The agreement also gives the museum a $10,000 grant this year as first payment on the estimated $18,000 required to meet renovation and moving expenses.

It was agreed to recommend that the 1965 city council provide the remaining $8,000 required to meet museum estimates and guarantee an operating deficit of up to $3,500 on its first full year in the new quarters.

HELP OVER HUMP

Mayor R. B. Wilson said council was seeking to help the B.C. Maritime Museum "over the hump" and become established in a central location.

"Once the museum gets into Bastion Square and has been operating for two or three years, there is every prospect that it will become a self-supporting venture and a tremendous asset to the community," the mayor said.

ESTIMATE CONSERVATIVE

He added that estimates prepared by museum directors which show an anticipated operating loss on the first year of operation in the new quarters are conservative.

Ald. A. W. Toome said he would like to be clearly understood "that we are not just handing out public money" to the museum.

LASTING VALUE

He said the grants to the museum are designed to assist in the establishment of an institution which will have lasting value to the community.

HMCS Oriole Due Today

The Esquimalt-based navy sailing vessel HMCS Oriole will return at 5 p.m. today from a 38-day training cruise in California waters. Estimated times of arrival were changed twice due to adverse weather conditions but this one is believed to be firm, a navy spokesman said yesterday.

Budget Principle Is Adopted

City council yesterday formally adopted the principle of a capital budget on the lines set out in a report by city manager Dennis Young.

Aldermen also supported finance chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell's proposal for a special committee to reduce the $4,604,000 worth of projects to $3,587,000.

Mr. Young said Wednesday a five-year program totalling $3,587,000 could be financed with a cumulative net increase of less than one mill in taxes.

Attacks Official

Parking Protester Rapped in Council

A Victoria businessman who appeared before city council with a complaint about parking was rapped when he strayed off the subject and suggested a city hall official be "transferred."

Charles Mullins, proprietor of a marine supplies firm in the 800 block Yates Street, strongly protested the change from angle to curbside parking on Yates between Blanshard and Oak that went into effect this week.

OUT 'DISASTROUS'

He presented a petition signed by 11 of his fellow merchants and told council that the 50-per-cent reduction in meters "will be disastrous to our business. You are chasing both business and customers out of town."

Mr. Mullins said he had previously talked by telephone to traffic chairman Ald. Millard Mooney and city engineer James Garnett, neither of whom could offer "one good reason" for the elimination of angle parking.

He added: "Mr. Garnett is certainly out of line on this thing. He is no good for this job ... and should be transferred."

"That is most unfair," snapped Mayor R. B. Wilson.

The mayor told Mr. Mullins: "If you have a problem concerning parking, this council is willing to deal with that; but I suggest that you leave the matter of civic employees alone."

METER-FEEDERS

Mr. Mullins later admitted, under questioning, that some employees of stores in the area are "meter-feeders" who park on Yates for long periods during the day. He said creation of a new loading zone wouldn't help the situation nor would reduction of the present 60-minute meters to 30 minutes.

Council voted to receive and file the petition.

Earlier in the day, the official traffic commission which originally proposed the removal of angle parking on Yates, reaffirmed its stand in the face of the 32 protests.

Together for 63 Years

They're Not Honeymooners, They Just Seem So

By KEITH M. SMITH

If there's a new feeling of good-will right now in Gorge Road Hospital, and more smiles in evidence among both patients and staff, credit should probably go to Mr. and Mrs. W. Lorne Dunn of Nanaimo—the "happy honeymooners."

Lorne and Frankie Dunn are not really honeymooners, although they did about it a lot—and are obviously as happy together as any newlyweds.

As a matter of fact, he is 65, she is 64—and next May 15 they will celebrate their 33rd wedding anniversary.

"Togetherness" is word much scoffed these days, but the Dunes have practised it for more than three score years. Their manner of doing it is simple, wonderful—and enviable.

Even as individuals, they're remarkable.

Mrs. Dunn, while strolling near a picnic site some years ago near Duncan, found herself staring at a cougar in the eye. The cougar (later shot and found to measure nine feet) gave up and went away.

"I couldn't do anything else but stare," Mrs. Dunn explains it today. "I was paralyzed!"

When Lorne was 70 he decided to visit his mother in Vancouver on her 90th birthday. She asked him what he was doing these days.

Lorne, who'd been retired at 65 after 56 years with the Canadian Pacific Railway, had to tell her "Nothing very much."

"The idea!" she exclaimed. "A strapping young fellow like you not doing anything!"

Lorne was so embarrassed he went back to Nanaimo, applied for and got a job as assistant engineer with the federal public works department. He kept it for three and a half years, too.

Frankie was born in Ottawa, lived as an infant at Duck Lake, Sask., through the Riel Rebellion, then returned east. When she was about 15 the family returned west to Winnipeg, and at 18 Frankie was a telegraph operator there with the CPR.

Lorne was born near Stratford, Ont., came west to Grenfell, Sask., in 1894, moved to Portage la Prairie, Man., and learned telegraphy there.

He was transferred to the Winnipeg main office in 1897, and when Frankie joined the staff soon after their romance began.

Two years later they married, and in 1904 Lorne became the first station agent at Gimli, Man.

In 1911 the Dunes were transferred to the E. & N.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Dunn, hand-in-hand for a lifetime division of the CPR on Vancouver Island, living at Duncan until 1919 when he was moved to Nanaimo as city agent.

Nanaimo has been their home ever since, and for the last 45 years they have lived at 110 Stewart Avenue.

Some years after he retired in 1943, Mr. Dunn was pleasantly surprised to learn that oil had been discovered on a farm he owned in southern Saskatchewan.

This meant no further financial worries, but changed little else about their lives.

Mr. Dunn was a founder of the Nanaimo Kiwanis Club, and for 39 years served as auditor for the Nanaimo-Cedar Farmers' Institute. He is also a member of the Masons and the Canadian Order of Foresters. Mrs. Dunn belongs to the Eastern Star.

They have one daughter and two grandchildren in Victoria—Mrs. Glenn Kemp, Anne and Douglas, of 2086 Granite— and two other granddaughters, Mrs. Muriel Smith, Vancouver, and Mrs. Shirley Carr, Halifax. There are four great-grandchildren.

Yes, you may ask, but where does Gorge Road Hospital come into the picture?

Last Feb. 10 the Dunes were returning home when, after leaving a bus across the street from their house, they were both hit by a car.

Both suffered broken hips and other injuries, and spent three weeks in Nanaimo Regional Hospital.

A week ago Thursday they were transferred—together, of course, in the same ambulance—to Gorge Hospital for therapy.

They're still getting around only in wheelchairs, but they're doing just fine.

And whenever they want to confide in each other they can still do so without anyone else being the wiser.

While onlookers smile at the happy couple holding hands, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn are really "talking"—with their fingertips in Morse code.

Other officers elected were Miss Jane Leigh and Mrs. Patrick R. Ellis, first and second vice-presidents; Mrs. F. C. Vaughan-Birch, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. McDonald, recording secretary; Mrs. H. R. Dicketta, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Andrews, dorcas secretary; Mrs. E. G. Edwards, candidates' secretary; Mrs. N. W. Life, educational; Mrs. P. B. Harrison, Girls' Auxiliary; Mrs. L. Small, Junior Auxiliary; Mrs. H. J. Newnam, Little Helpers; Mrs. A. R. Walker, Living Message; Mrs. T. C. Griffiths, United Thank Offering.

Mrs. W. R. Oiler was named social service secretary; Mrs. Thomas Hughes, prayer partner secretary; Mrs. C. T. Skinner, extra cents secretary; Mrs. G. A. Mortimer, chairman Cowichan Deanery; Miss D. M. Lucas, chairman Comox Deanery.

Following his closing address, the Most Rev. H. E. Sexton, Lord Archbishop of British Columbia, installed the new officers.

Guest speakers at Wednesday's meeting included Archdeacon P. R. Ellis of the Columbia Coast Mission, Rev. Stanley Smith of the Mission to Seamen and Rev. D. H. Field.

Archdeacon Ellis told of the great distances to be travelled by the mission boat and the scattered areas visited.

Rev. Smith spoke of the seamen from every corner of the world, who find help and friendship at the mission. He told the delegates that the tablecloth he had brought to Victoria six years ago to have names inscribed at a small fee—and which he later embroidered—was not completed. It raised $14,000 for the work of the mission.

Rev. Hatfield brought news of Camp Columbia which, he said, now has the basic sanitation installed, through the efforts of the Woman's Auxiliary. He stressed the need for adult leaders and seniors for staffing the seven camps. He also reported the fees have been reduced for this year, from $2.50 to $2.25 a day.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Danny and I were engaged but that's off now. We still date once in a while.

When we were engaged I used to ask Danny for a few dollars to get my hair fixed and he was very nice about it. If we were in a drug store for a snack I'd pick up a few items and he'd pay for them.

The other evening we were out for a walk and passed a grocery store. I needed a few little things so we stopped. When we walked up to the cash register Danny just stood there. Finally I said, "Well, aren't you going to pay?" He said, "I didn't buy anything." "I never felt so cheap in all my life. The whole bill was under $2. I took out my wallet and paid for the groceries myself. We didn't do anything that day but go for a walk. Danny didn't spend a dime on me. Was he wrong? I want you to be the judge.—LITTLE BETSY

Dear Little—and I do mean VERY small: You sound like a penny ante child.

Why should Danny swing for your groceries? Some couples have a "You buy 'em, I fry 'em" dinner date, but this was nothing of the sort. You tried to clip the guy and he wouldn't clip. I'm with him.

Dear Ann Landers: In my college days I was a tramp. No other word will fit. I told myself it was short, dates were important and I lived it up. I became pregnant and had to drop out of school. The big, brave, wonderful boy friend decided he wasn't ready for marriage.

I need your help.—EK TRAMP.

Dear Ek: An out-of-wedlock child is more than an indiscretion. Don't marry the man without first filling him in on this vital bit of history. The fear of being found out, plus the guilt of having deceived him, could ruin the marriage.

If he can't tolerate the knowledge that you have had a child it's better to know now.

Dear Ann Landers: If a man is dining with his mother and his wife in a restaurant and a business acquaintance stops at the table, should the man introduce his wife or his mother first?

We have been arguing about this for two days and need your answer.—YOU KNOW WHICH.

Dear Which: Unless his wife is older than his mother, the man should introduce his mother first.

Easter decorations set the theme at the spring opening of the Ladies' Division of Colwood Golf Club yesterday. Two-ball foursomes were followed by luncheon in the club house. Mrs. Ray Foster, left; Mrs. Fred Haynes, Mrs. Jack Todd and Mrs. Hugh Thorburn, captain of women's team, admire this basket holding real, live chicks.

Another group attending the Colwood opening were Mrs. Harold Menzies, president of the ladies' section; Mrs. Frank Skidlings, Mrs. Alan B. Hall, Nanaimo, and Mrs. Lorne W. Davies. They are pictured with some of the colorful decorations which brought Spring right into the club house.

Taken for Granted

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Shoppers have become too accustomed to inefficient sales clerks, says Bette McCracken of Toronto, a national officer of the Women's Advertising and Sales Club. "They have become so acclimated to rudeness, apathy and lack of product knowledge on the part of clerks that they take it for granted."

Mrs. Gladys Brock has this to say about her apartment at Christie Point:

"The beauty of Christie Point has always been a great attraction to me; and when I looked over the various suites, all equipped with every comfort one could desire, I felt that I could not move in soon enough. It takes me only five minutes to drive to my work at H.M.C. Dockyard."

Christie Point Apartments, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigowan Road, off Highway 1A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the phone is EV 5-0644. You too, can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110.00 a month.

Paddling Approved

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia lawmakers, after approving a massive program to modernize education, have endorsed the old-fashioned remedy of paddling school children who misbehave.

The legislature approved last month without debate a bill legalizing corporal punishment on a local-option basis. It awaits the signature of Governor Carl E. Sanders to become law.

"This protects the law," explained Dr. Claude Purcell, state superintendent of education.

There are some conditions. The paddling must be administered under supervision of a principal or another teacher. It must not be excessive or unduly severe.

Prior to the enactment of the bill, Georgia had no law on the subject of corporal punishment in public schools.

Supt. G. R. Holston of Upson County commented on a parental complaint about a spanking: "The children are going to be paddled when they need paddling and if the parents don't like it, they can take them out of school."

Married in St. Aidan's

Tall baskets of spring flowers decorated St. Aidan's United Church when Rev. A. B. MacLeod heard marriage vows exchanged between Marianne Belle Lea and Knute Knudsen. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Lea, 1413 Andrews Road, and Mr. and Mrs. N. Knudsen, 1547 Foul Bay Road. Mr. Lea gave his daughter in marriage.

The petite, dark-haired bride was lovely in a heavily brocaded gown of white tulle that she had made. It featured a fitted bodice, long lily point sleeves and belled skirt, slightly on train. Her chapel-length veil misted from a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white freesia.

Street-length gowns of lagoon blue crystal charm styled with fitted bodices and belted skirts were choice of matron of honor

Mrs. W. Johnston and bridesmaids the Misses Mary Bernard and Mary Morrison. Whimsies of matching net and white flowers, and white accessories completed their outfits. Yellow tulips and white freesia were in their bouquets.

Blonde little Miss Helen Knudsen, sister of the groom, was flower girl in a short yellow nylon frock. She carried a bouquet of spring blossoms.

William Johnston was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked with white bells and lily-of-the-valley by Ernest Lea, brother of the bride and Richard Knudsen, brother of the groom.

A reception in Club Solo, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pale yellow roses and surrounded by silver tulle. Served and home baking will be on sale.

pleted the decor. Toast was proposed by Richard Tyson, longtime friend of the family and music was provided by K. Warren's orchestra.

For travelling on honeymoon the bride wore a black and white model suit with black muskrat collar, black accessories and black velvet cloche hat. White roses were in her corsage.

The young couple will make their home in Garden Park Court, Victoria.

Curls Coming Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cycle of straight hair is ending and in come the curls, predicts one man whose job is to keep tabs on feminine hair styles.

Arthur Caplin foresees curls coming back for three reasons. The women are ready for them. The clothes call for them. And the men like the feminine allure of them.

Caplin, marketing director for a hair products firm, indicated women were weary of the straight hair cycle which has been in for the last three to five years.

Caplin said in his opinion "women dress to please men, but dress their hair to please men. Hair psychologically always has had more sexuality than clothes."

Caplin foresees a combination of curl with some fullness because women — although discarding the bouffants—want to keep some bulk because they've found it's flattering.

Curls will come in two ways: there'll be soft ringlets for day; for dress occasions, there will be more elaborate curls—some with the hair brought up off the neck and "interlocking, interwoven." Hair will be a bit longer, he added, to mid-centre of the neck, because "with curl you need a little more hair. Three inches with curl are about the same as two inches straight."

In hair coloring, he saw no swing to any particular shade. "But color will continue its growth," he said. "We're moving into an era of extreme color consciousness among women. Certainly coloring no longer is an oddity."

It's his business to guess trends at least six months in advance for planning advertising and sales campaigns, he said.

First ladies and movie stars long have influenced hair fashions, said Caplin.

Will Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson be as influential? "I don't think so," said Caplin. "Her hair is neat, well-groomed; there's nothing else to copy."

"But women's styles tend to find reinforcement in a personality. I don't know who she will be. How I wish I did."

Mumps Fail to Halt Show

By BERT BINNY
Something new was added to the 24th Victoria Schools' Drama Festival as it rolled into its fourth day yesterday.

Mumps! And it didn't fool around with the common herd either. In the manner of classic, Greek tragedy, it struck high and hard.

Drama Festival Carries on Tradition

The king (John Swainson) in the Willow's elementary school presentation of The King's Creampuffs was laid low only Wednesday evening.

But the show, in the best tradition, went on. It was skillfully directed by Miss Virginia Lefever and adjudicator Jack McCreath called it "delightful."

"It also had nice costuming and setting throughout," he said and added a number of other memorable comments.

Of Mary Pumphrey who undertook the role of the King at less than 24 hours' notice: "A real little trumper."

Of Barbara Tomlin (First Witch): "The nicest Witch I've ever met... the Bette Davis of 1980."

Of Donna Turner (The Princess): "A very lovely Princess indeed."

Of Alix Taylor (Second Witch): "A very sweet old thing." (Alix was probably all of 10 years old).

Of Genevieve Singleton (The Queen): "She is mistress of the grand gesture."

Altogether this was a thoroughly entertaining performance.

The host school, Oak Bay Junior High, presented yet another edition of variation of Thornton Wilder's The Happy Journey. It was performed by St. Margaret's School on Monday evening and, looking back over previous festivals, it is difficult to find a harder perennial.

Mr. Wilder could surely live high on the hog on residuals from this play alone.

And yet, oddly enough, it's not the best suited to schools drama either.

The adjudicator found the Oak Bay presentation too slow-moving, particularly towards the end, but he emphasized that the lovely spirit of the piece and its correct mood were there from the beginning to the end.

Pamela Harbord as Ma Kirby was "very sweet but needed more voice" and Robbie Gillespie's Arthur "could have walked right out of 1910."

The afternoon ended with Tillicum Elementary school's A Case for Two Detectives.

Unfortunately, there was scarcely any perceptible effort at characterization which placed the play in the realm of presentational rather than representational drama.

Jim Halliday, as the Announcer, was always effective and his sudden switch from this part — presentational — to that of a butler — representational — was a brief indication of how different these modes of presentation are and, therefore, of what the play actually lacked.

All this may sound pretty discouraging to Tillicum School but it certainly isn't meant to be. Somewhat more emphasis on WHY the characters speak and behave the way they do and, perhaps, a little less on HOW they do it — and the considerable potential abilities of this young cast will come into their own and really blossom out.

Activities moved over to Mount View High School in the evening where the first two plays were presented by North Saanich High School.

Both were by author T. B. Morris. The adjudicator noted

"This," said Mr. McCreath, "was a good Canadian play, acted by young people who knew what it was all about."

Festival competition ends this evening with a program of three plays at S. J. Willis Junior High School, Glenlyon School, S. J. Willis and Victoria High make their bids for the honors.

Pat O'Neal and Nazi literature

Cabinet to See Hate Literature

VANCOUVER (CP) — Anti-Jewish literature, being distributed on the West Coast by a group claiming headquarters in Atlanta, Ga., and Scarborough, Ont., will be brought to the attention of the provincial government.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, said yesterday hate literature had been turned over to him which the federation's human rights committee will bring to the attention of legislators when the provincial cabinet meets.

The literature is being distributed under the signature of Col. J. P. Fry, who signs himself as national organizer for Canada with headquarters in Scarborough.

Mr. O'Neal said the fact that the mail bore a Victoria postmark showed the Fry group, called the National White Americans Party, has members in British Columbia.

Each letter from Col. Fry is accompanied by a membership card, which the receiver is urged to sign and return. The letter says an organizer will later visit persons interested.

The literature says in part: "Negroes are of a lower order than whites and should be sent to Africa."

ALL JEWS
"On the Jewish question," the literature says, "our policy is much stricter. We demand the arrest of all Jews involved in Communist or Zionist plots, public trials and executions. All other Jews would immediately be sterilized."

Monopoly Feared In Accountancy

VICTORIA (CP) — A federal tax official said Thursday a proposed accountancy act would lead to a monopoly and higher fees in public accountancy in British Columbia.

Gordon Campbell, of Victoria, told the legislature's private bills committee he was speaking only as an individual certified general accountant but that his views represent those of 45 per cent of the CGAs in B.C.

Mr. Campbell said the proposed "act representing the practice of accountancy" really represents the views of the B.C. Institute of Chartered Accountants.

FOR FEAR
He suggested the CGA association had submitted, in 1962, to the CA institute's will only for fear the chartered accountants were strong enough to obtain legislation that would force CGAs out of public accountancy.

He pointed out that the certified general accountants of 1961 had given CGAs roughly equivalent status with CAs in public accountancy.

No Mineral Prospecting In Smaller B.C. Parks

An order-in-council prohibiting prospecting, staking and the recording of mineral claims in provincial parks of 5,000 acres or less, has been passed by the provincial cabinet. It was announced yesterday.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan said the order would apply to all classes of provincial parks.

He said 130 Class A parks will be protected from the encroachment of mineral development under the order, which supercedes legislation passed in 1946 which allowed unlimited prospecting within provincial parks.

TCA Name Change May Cost Plenty

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost of changing the name of Trans-Canada Air Lines to Air Canada was estimated yesterday at between $250,000 and $750,000, depending on how quickly the change is made.

The estimate was made by TCA President Gordon R. McGregor in testimony before the Senate transport committee on a government-backed private member's bill from the Commons authorizing the name change for the publicly-owned airline.

An average of 7,300 women enroll in Red Cross home nursing courses each year. These courses are conducted by 800 registered nurses serving as volunteer instructors.

Sore Point Rubbed Raw

MP Resents Rural 'Tyranny'

OTTAWA (CP) — A sore point between rural and urban MPs was rubbed raw in the Commons Thursday when a Toronto socialist charged that a "rural tyranny" has controlled Parliament for years despite the farm-to-city population drift.

Roid Scott (NDP — Toronto-Danforth) said representation in the Commons traditionally has been biased in favor of voters in the countryside and against city dwellers. The system violated essential principles of democracy and justice.

"We must abolish the rural tyranny that has ruled this Parliament for so long," he said. His remark was greeted by cries of "shame" from rural Conservative MPs and deaf-thumping applause from NDP and Liberal members representing city ridings.

Mr. Scott, a lawyer, spoke as the Commons entered the third day of debate on the major government bill for the redistribution of federal seats in line with population shifts revealed by the 1961 census.

The measure provides for the establishment of 10 new provincial commissions to redraw electoral boundaries. The population of each riding could not exceed or fall short of the provincial average by more than 20 per cent.

In the past, redistribution was handled every 10 years by a Commons committee and the variation in constituency voting populations was unlimited. These range at present from 172,950 voters in York — Scarborough to 5,656 in Ile-de-la-Madeleine.

Leon Balcer (PC — Trois-Rivières) said it is essential to consult the provinces before any redistribution takes place. Transport Minister Pickers, gill replied that Mr. Balcer's suggestion would mean changing the constitution.

He said the present bill does not alter the electoral balance among the provinces, but only seeks to redistribute the constituencies within a province. Under the British North America Act, Parliament was empowered to look after the mechanics of redistribution.

Mr. Scott said the 20-per-cent rule should only be applied to 10 or 12 northern ridings that cover huge, sparsely-populated areas. In other constituencies, the commissions should work toward the smallest possible variation.

"Why must rural seats be smaller in population?" he asked. "One man, one vote is an essential principle of democracy."

"Are rural voters less intelligent so that they need more members to protect them from being hornswoggled by city slickers?"

"One of the most successful lobbies in Canadian history has been the farm lobby," he said amid groans by Conservatives from the Prairies. "Farmers have extracted all kinds of assistance from the government."

commissions should not be "untouchable organizations" like the CBC. MPs should have the right to appeal changes in their constituencies that were unacceptable.

Mrs. Kennedy

Beggar Asked for $20,000

'I Hate to Put an End to Your Dream'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy Thursday was seen as being responsive and compassionate to human need, even when confronted with a request for $20,000 from a total stranger.

Early in 1953, when her late husband was a senator, Mrs. Kennedy received a letter from a man in Birmingham, England, asking for funds because the Kennedys were "millionaires."

On Jan. 10, 1955, Mrs. Kennedy wrote in reply from Palm Beach, Fla., to Ronald C. Munro that his letter had made her "most unhappy these past few days."

In the letter, which was made public by an auction firm which plans to auction it next Thursday, Mrs. Kennedy stated:

"How wonderful it would be if this were a world where 7,000 pounds or $20,000 were merely to me the amount spent on an evening party, as you put it. If that were true I would give you what I could to enable you and your family to start a new life . . .

"The word millionaire has a magic ring to it, but I think there are probably left in the world only a few maharajahs who can throw money around like that."

"I could not possibly give you that amount of money, were you my closest friend or relative. True, my husband is well-off, but taxes in this country are enormous . . . and when he has paid for the household expenses, and his business expenses, which are great indeed, he does give to charity, and that goes to the Kennedy Foundation for underprivileged children which is the great interest of him and his family, and at the end, there is not just a great pile of money lying around as you imagine."

"I would have helped you if I could. I hate to put an end to your dream, but I think you are hoping for a miracle that just won't happen in the 20th century . . . I am sure God will be kind to you."

"I explain all this to you, because I know it is hard to read about people who are rich when you are not, and I do not want you to think us spoiled and heartless. From your letter I think you have something that a great many rich people don't have, and would give their fortune to acquire, a wife and family who adore you and whom you love."

Munro is a disabled RAF veteran who now works for a British government agency.

Late last year he sent the letter to a local firm for auction because he was "in need of money."

The nine-year-old letter was expected to bring about $250.

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Board of Directors and Members of The Community Chest of Greater Victoria:

We have examined the balance sheet of The Community Chest of Greater Victoria as at December 31, 1963 and the statement of revenue and expense for the year ended on that date and have obtained all the information and explanations we have required. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

We are satisfied that the balance sheet and statement of revenue and expense present fairly the financial position of the Society as at December 31, 1963 and the results of its activities for the year ended on that date, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Professor Threatened

Freedom Call Irks Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist East Germany Thursday threatened to expel one of its leading intellectuals for publicly calling for "general freedom."

Veteran Communist Professor Robert Havemann, 54, of East Berlin's Humboldt University was the target of a fierce attack by the East German Ministry of Higher Education.

The ministry statement since 1932, is one of the few an interview to a West German Socialist newspaper in which he said East Germans need more freedom to improve the Communist system.

The ministry said Havemann "has misused the trust placed in him and has made it apparent that he intends to take his teaching profession to West Germany."

The professor, a Communist sternly-controlled East Germany of "strengthening" Communism through liberalizing the regime's long-frozen attitudes.

Similar "revisionists" appeared the 1956 Polish and Hungarian revolutions and recently achieved considerable success in Czechoslovakia, but they are sternly repressed in East Germany.

The statement accused Havemann of having "lost sight of the real situation in the two German states" and said his demand for "a general freedom" meant nothing less than "opening the way for the revenge-seekers drive to the east."

Common Market Deep in Red

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The European Common Market's trade deficit for 1963 was $2,800,000,000 (U.S.), some $1,400,000,000 higher than in 1962.

Only West Germany continued with a high surplus trade balance.

Illegitimacy a Crime Says Mississippi Law

JACKSON, Miss (AP)—The Mississippi House of Representatives Wednesday passed a bill making illegitimate births a crime and refused to change laws that make rape punishable only by death or life imprisonment.

The house voted to make unwed parents subject to penitentiary terms on the birth of a second child — unless they would permit voluntary sterilization.

LESS THAN LIFE

The chamber voted against a bill that would permit juries to fix rape penalties at less than life imprisonment.

The bills were kept in the house on motions to reconsider.

Both measures had racial overtones. Debate made it clear that legislators wanted the severe rape penalties to discourage Negro attacks on white women and penitentiary terms for illegitimate births in an effort to cut down the number of Negroes born out of wedlock and put on welfare rolls.

WELFARE ROLLS

Representative W. B. Meek, author of the illegitimate child measure, said there were 8,200 non-white illegitimate births in the state last year and only 444 illegitimate white births.

The house accepted an amendment to let voluntary sterilization be accepted in lieu of the prison term of one to three years.

Test Success

CANBERRA (AP)—Supply Minister Allen Fairhall said Thursday a Black Knight ballistic test vehicle was successfully fired at Woomera Wednesday. The main object was to test an improved second stage.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Let's see—where were we in starting our free seeds of the new Starfire tomato? If you have been following these instructions, you will have selected one or two ordinary clay flower pots of any convenient size. If they were old ones, you scrubbed them thoroughly inside and out with hot, soapy water. If they are newly purchased, you soaked them in water for two hours to saturate the pores in the clay.

The drainage hole in the bottom of the pot was covered with a drain of broken flower pot, hollow side down, and the pot was filled to within half an inch of the top with sifted porous soil—either purchased all-purpose potting soil, or a homemade mix of topsoil, peat moss and sand.

This was watered thoroughly but very slowly with boiling water, right out of the kettle, to sterilize its surface, then your tomato seeds were spaced out an inch apart each way on the warm, muddy surface and covered with a quarter-inch layer of peat moss.

The final step was to cover the top of the sown pot with a sheet of polythene plastic film held in place with an elastic band. The purpose of this covering is to convert your clay pot into a miniature hothouse, to conserve moisture so no further watering will be required until the seeds come up, and to create a warm and humid atmosphere around the seeds.

Now we have our seeds sown, the next thing is to induce them to germinate as quickly and as vigorously as possible, and quite a high degree of warmth is required—ideally, between 75 and 80 degrees. Just where you will find this warmth may tax your ingenuity a bit.

Before we had oil heat in our house, there was a saucer-shaped depression in the top of our ancient coal-burning furnace which was always kept filled with sand, or in more recent years, with an expanded mica insulating material such as Zonolite, and I discovered this was a grand place to germinate seeds. Sometimes a warming cupboard or the top of the hot water tank will provide the necessary gentle warmth, or even the top of a radio or television set which is in fairly constant use.

Ordinarily, tomato seeds take about a week to germinate, but with good, vigorous seed and ideal germinating conditions, some of your baby plants may come through as early as the third day after sowing. It is important to examine your sown pot at least once a day or even oftener for as soon as the first seedling breaks surface, the plastic cover must come off and the pot moved to a very sunny and much cooler place. Even a few hours of darkness and humid warmth may cause your newly emerged seedlings to grow thin and spindly, ruining all chances of developing into sturdy plants.

Our object from this stage on is to produce stocky, thick-stemmed, short-jointed plants with leaves of a good dark green color, and to this end we need plenty of sunshine, plenty of fresh air, and not too much warmth.

A temperature of 60 degrees is pretty close to ideal, and as many hours of sunshine as you can manage, up to a maximum of 16 hours daily. If the weather is dull and sunshine lacking, it isn't a bad idea to supplement the natural sunlight by placing your pot of young tomato plants under a desk lamp for a few hours in the evening, or better still, under fluorescent tubes to make up the desired 16 hours of light.

Now I have a bit of interim homework for you. If you have a spare thermometer around the house, do a bit of testing in your basement and see if you can find a place where the temperature stays down around 55 degrees. Tomorrow I am going to describe a Swedish technique of chilling your baby tomato plants to induce them to blossom and bear fruit much earlier in life. It will save time if you have a cool spot already picked out in your basement.

More About Naples, from JOHN CROSBY

Non-Stop Open Air Opera

NAPLES—Every Neapolitan is at heart a lawyer. He loves to argue. He loves to take sides. He loves to posture.

"Two Neapolitans have a little motor accident in the street," says a Neapolitan lawyer. "It's a scratch. Each one knows his insurance will take care of it. But they pile out. They argue. They scream. A crowd collects. Everyone takes sides. The cops arrive. They scream. It's the best way of projecting your image."

You can talk about Neapolitans to Neapolitans for hours. It'll run out of your ears, the stories.

"They wrecked the German army," boasted a Neapolitan builder. "The Germans marched in here, well-buttoned, well-disciplined, on their toes. Then they met the Neapolitans. You guys go out and get killed? For what? You crazy or something?" In six months, the Germans were unbentured to the waist and demoralized.

An American speaks up. "We got a great plan to wreck the Russians. We'd like to parachute all of Naples into Russia in two or three. These guys would infiltrate—run the elevators, the machine shops, join the army. In two years, the elevators wouldn't run, the machines would be wrecked, the army would be chaotic."

I ask you is the most typical Neapolitan of all. They may be Felippi, a playwright and actor for 30 years has portrayed accurately the Neapolitan soul—his outer pessimism making his inner optimism and love of life.

Another typical one: Achille Lauro, who was mayor. One of his campaign tricks was to give out left shoes to the electorate, promising them the right one if he got elected.

That afternoon, I hover over the shimmering bay in a helicopter looking down the crater that buried Pompeii, the steam seeping out of the lip.

Over the racket of the spinning rotors the pilot tells me. "This place was here before Rome and it's got more history than Rome."

We sail over the shining bay where Ulysses tied himself to the mast to keep from falling for the song of the sirens seducing the local fleshpots.

We circle Pompeii slowly and head down the coast to the hill where the sibyl uttered their remarkably accurate predictions thousands of years ago, pass over Lake Averno. "That's the entrance to the Inferno down there," shouted the pilot, pointing at a little temple on the shore. "That's where Dante got the idea."

We passed north over the town where Vergil lived and wrote the Aeneid, much of it out of local Neapolitan lore. Vesuvius had the best press agent, but actually Naples is a hive of volcanoes. You can count 80 craters from the air.

Capri rises out of the bay, shining in the sunlight, black and gold. We turn south and pass over Sorrento, its cliffs as straight as a knife edge, the hotels perched on them like dolls' houses, the blue sea washing at the bottom.

"It's a great city," shouted the pilot. "But no tourist ever comes to Naples. The place is a way-station for somewhere else—Positano, Lachia, Sorrento, Capri. Every other city has a tourist bureau, but the Neapolitans couldn't care less whether you come or not."

Later I'm standing at the Piazza Crocicelle de Marne. Neapolitan chaos. Cars trying to edge past, a scurry of pedestrians in their black shapeless clothes, hawklike faces with gleaming eyes. A big hair-tipped lady passed with a basket of flowers on her head. A man strides along carrying wooden cages full of canaries.

The noise is appalling—auto horns, transistor radios, shrill Neapolitan voices. The sheets are flapping in the sunshine. The stalls are piled with octopus, kitchenware, cabbages, cigarettes, whisky. Two churches face each other across the street.

"You got to acquire a taste for Neapolitan," said my companion, who's been living here. "They're comedians. They drive you nuts if you take 'em seriously." I got stopped by traffic, but an intrepid little girl of maybe five years took me by the hand, led me across. I gave her 100 lira and she flashed me a smile that will kill 'em in the fortieth row when she grows up to be the next Sophia Loren.

It's Career Before Family, Says SHEILAH GRAHAM

Most Actresses Liars

NEW YORK (NANA)—It was only last year that Leslie Caron told me she would never accept a picture that took her away from her husband Peter Mail for more than a few weeks. That was when she was happily working in The L-Shaped Room. Now she has signed for two Hollywood pictures that will take her from Peter and her children for six months. "I just have to act," she admits. Most actresses pretend to put their family before their careers. And most of them are lying.

I asked writer-producer Stanley Shapiro what he thinks about actresses in general. "Most actresses," said Stanley, "become narcotic, too much love of self. The moment a woman becomes an actress, she forfeits her right to womanhood." Stanley is in New York to discuss his recently finished picture with Marlon Brando and David Niven Bedtime Story. He wrote such Rock Hudson-Doris Day winners and Cary Grant winners as Pillow Talk, Love Come Back, Operation Petticoat.

The Beatles have decided that Beatlemania is a bad title for their first movie. I think it's a good one. But they are now struggling for something new. And to all those heartbroken young ladies who called to ask "Is it true?"—that Beatle Paul McCartney was planning to get himself engaged to actress Jane Asher, all I can comfort them with is, there's many a slip between an engagement and a marriage. And if the engagement is long enough, anything can happen.

Barry Sullivan to play disgraced politician John Profumo? The film Barry is making for Rank in London is titled The Lost Image, and I hear it is based loosely—and that's the right word—on the Profumo-Christine Keeler case.

Robert Stack was telling Van Johnson that he had made $2,000,000 from his Untouchables television series. Van managed to smile. The series was offered to him first.

Desert Rat Reports

To JACK SMITH

Harry Oliver, the old desert rat, has sent me another packet of mail from Fort Oliver.

It's a batch of clippings from some back issues of the Desert Rat Scrap Book, the world's only five-page newspaper, and the only one you can open in the wind.

They're mostly about Oliver's old dog Whiskers.

The reason he sent me this material, I guess, was to let me know that Whiskers is dead. He was shot by an unidentified person on Christmas Eve, 1962. Getting mail from Oliver takes a while. You get the feeling you are living in the 19th century.

In fact, the envelope does smell a little of horsehide and sweat.

So Whiskers is dead. It's too late to cry. He was 17, after all, and had led a dog's life.

Whiskers helped Oliver edit the scrap book. According to the scrap book, Oliver was a lot of stuff. If that's true, Whiskers may have been a better liar than Oliver.

"Seventeen and a half years we were together," says Oliver. "and during that time he never did learn any tricks. He talked a lot, though."

Whiskers almost learned some tricks, but they turned out to be immoral or a liability of some kind. Oliver says, for example, that Whiskers learned how to play poker with the Colonel, Oliver's crow, and Sin, his cat. But Whiskers could never win.

Whiskers had a poker face, Oliver explained, but every time he had a good hand his tail wagged. The cat, on the other hand, wagged his tail all the time, so you never knew whether he had a good hand or not.

Whiskers' trouble was that he didn't wag his tail—it wagged by itself.

I have visited Oliver two or three times in the past several years but never happened to catch Whiskers. Sin and the Colonel played poker. However, Oliver showed me the deck. I certainly looked played with. I don't know whether the dog could talk or play poker or not. But one time he did earn $15. A burglar broke into Fort Oliver one night and Whiskers barked. Oliver woke up and got his 45. Together they captured the burglar, who had $15 in his pocket. Oliver and Whiskers took $15 and kicked him out.

"Just think," Oliver says, "that buzzard would steal from a starving editor of a five-page newspaper when he had $15 in his pockets."

The last time I wrote about Harry Oliver I mentioned that he lived in a 100-year-old adobe fort he built himself. Several people wrote complaining that a man who was only 75 couldn't have built anything 100 years old. Well, he did.

Dr. William Fraser Macdougall, who died Tuesday following a traffic accident, was a veterinary surgeon of long service, an Imperial Army soldier and for years a B.C. public servant in his specialized field.

Dr. Macdougall was involved in a minor collision at Fort and Cook Tuesday, and died in hospital of a heart attack a short time later.

He lived in retirement at 913 Cowichan Street. He was 75.

WOUNDED AT MONS

In the First World War he was wounded at Mons while serving with the Royal Army Veterinary Corps, and at the end of the European hostilities was transferred to the northwest frontier of India, where he learned "to hate camels."

Three-Hit, Twice-Run Driver Fined

James Roger Edwards, 20, of 2245 Vickery, was driving along Douglas Wednesday night, when he came to this red light with a car stopped at it.

But did that stop Edwards? No, but he slowed down considerably — particularly after he struck the other car, knocked it across the intersection, over the sidewalk and into the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Away went Edwards, down Douglas, onto Pandora. He drove into a parking meter. This didn't stop him either.

After looting the instrument off at sidewalk level, he pressed on.

At Chambers and Pandora, he swung off the road, into a church parking lot and encountered a tree.

That stopped him. Yesterday he pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving and to failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and was fined $200 on each charge.

He told Magistrate William Ostler he had "just panicked." Francis M. Thompson, 2919 Wascana, driver of the car stopped at Yates, was taken to hospital for treatment of a sore neck.

A wife's "generous and forgiving heart," Magistrate William Ostler said yesterday, was the reason he did not jail Eric Murray, 3875 Douglas, for assault.

Murray was charged earlier this year with assaulting his pregnant wife. His lawyer said Murray's trouble stemmed from "his children's inability to do little chores around the house." He has three other children. Magistrate Ostler said because Murray's wife was prepared to attempt a reconciliation, he would not send him to prison, but ordered him to seek psychiatric treatment.

The magistrate described the case as "most shocking."

David Verge, 18, of 920 Arundel, was fined $125 yesterday after pleading guilty to charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and having no valid insurance.

Verge was driving another man's car Feb. 22, when he was involved in an accident at Rose and Hillside. After the accident, police said, he ran from the scene, but was later found by police. He pleaded guilty.

A woman who said she was having a disagreement with her husband when her car was involved in an accident Feb. 29, was fined $100 yesterday for failing to remain at the scene.

Adria Fraser, 3332 Metchoin, was also fined $50 for careless driving.

Court was told she struck another vehicle on the wrong side of the road, and drove away after the other driver had gone to call police.

A man who went to the Saanich police office and admitted leaving the scene of an accident on Saanich Road earlier this month, was fined $100 yesterday.

Sohan Singh, 1206 Finlayson, was involved in a collision with another car but did not remain at the scene until police arrived. He was interviewed by investigating officers a week later, but did not admit being in the accident until the following day, when he went voluntarily to the police station.

Father, Children Die in Flames

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—A father and his four children were killed early yesterday in a multi-alarm fire at their apartment. The lone survivor of the family was the mother, Judy Hajas, who reached safety by leaping from a second floor window with a child in her arms.

Snow Everywhere Except in Victoria

Victoria was surrounded by scattered showers laid on for snow yesterday, but none of it fell on the city.

The closest it got to Victoria was a light sprinkling on top of Mount Douglas. The rest fell on outlying areas as far away as Colwood and Jordan River.

Prediction for today is another day like yesterday, with a few at the Jordan River hydro reservoir, about 1,000 feet above sea level. There were traces of snow along the coast, more on higher ground, including the Malahat, and about an inch was recorded at Colwood.

Nearly four inches of snow fell at the Jordan River hydro reservoir, about 1,000 feet above sea level. There were traces of snow along the coast, more on higher ground, including the Malahat, and about an inch was recorded at Colwood.

Father Expired Today

By RUKMINI DEVI

BOMBAY (CP)—The Indian ministry of communications is facing a barrage of public criticism for what is described as "postal howlers."

One leading Bombay newspaper prints three to four letters a day from citizens complaining about interesting—and sometimes tragic—mistakes and changes in telegrams.

A housewife wrote that she sent a telegram greeting a cousin on her marriage. When it arrived it read: "Best wishes for a married life."

A man cabled his friend to "start with your wife for weekend." The friend received a message telling him to "part with your wife for weekend."

A business man wired a partner to ask how his ailing wife was feeling. Back came the telegraphic reply: "Wife now completely formal."

Scores of instances are being given by newspaper readers to prove their contention that—to quote one writer—"the major problem before the posts and telegraphs department is not inefficiency but sheer illiteracy."

One man said he wired his brother that their father was "expected" to arrive that day.

The telegram as it reached the brother read: "Father expired today."

One company charged that a postal error resulted in losing prestige and money. It sent a wire to its agent in Switzerland asking them to cable the arrival of a Swiss expert who was to assist the Indians in putting up a big industrial plant.

When no word came, the company learned that the Indian post office had transmitted the message as: "Cancel arrival of expert."

Postal officials say that the transformations are not to be blamed on the government telegraphers. They say that many telegrams are written illegibly and the transmitting offices have a hard time deciphering them.

Shakespearean Dispute

Marlowe Tomb Hunt Opens New Chapter

LONDON (Reuters)—An attempt to find the tomb of Elizabethan dramatist Christopher Marlowe in the 12th-century Church of St. Nicholas here has opened another chapter in the "great Shakespeare controversy."

The search was suggested by the Marlowe Society, which believes Marlowe, a Canterbury shoemaker's son, wrote the plays attributed to William Shakespeare.

The society hopes that, if permission is given to start the search, it will coincide with the celebrations this year of the 400th anniversary of the birth of both Marlowe and Shakespeare—and clear up the 300-year-old mystery surrounding the exact burial place of the poet.

An entry in the church register states that Marlowe was stabbed to death in 1593 by Francis Archer, "a serving-man," during a brawl and was buried in the St. Nicholas churchyard.

But, some people, including 53-year-old American drama critic Calvin Hoffman, have rejected that story and say it is much more likely that Marlowe, a friend and protégé of Sir Thomas Walsingham, a powerful figure at the time, arranged his "death" to save him from imprisonment.

They say, and history backs them on this, Marlowe was being sought to answer charges of blasphemy and atheism.

They believe Sir Thomas arranged for three of his servants to kill a stray reveler, whom they claimed was Marlowe.

MARLOWE FLED

Then, say the Marlowe supporters, the poet was secreted abroad, later returning quietly to live with the noblemen.

Seven years ago, the tomb of Sir Thomas at Chislehurst, was opened at the request of Hoffman and other supporters in an attempt to prove it was Marlowe who wrote the Shakespeare plays and that, in reality, the "immortal bard of Avon" was no more than a "second-rate actor" who "fathered" the works for a consideration.

OPENED TOMB

Hoffman, present when the tomb was opened, hoped to find lost original manuscripts of some of Shakespeare's plays and sonnets written in Marlowe's own hand.

He also hoped to find some evidence Sir Thomas sheltered Marlowe on his return from abroad while he wrote the plays and sonnets for which William Shakespeare was paid for the use of his name.

But all he found was hard-packed yellow sand instead of the three bodies, including that of Sir Thomas, said on the tomb face to be buried there.

It was believed the bodies were in a family vault beneath the tomb but Hoffman agreed to a request by the owner of the burial place not to disturb the coffins.

'Niggardly Price'

Labrador Sale Student Prank

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Note to Joey Smallwood: Somebody is trying to sell Labrador for $150—to Lester B. Pearson.

The project—started by two budding lawyers at Bristol University—caused a sharp intake of breath among officials at Canada House recently.

Rag week at the university, when students through dances, teas and such pranks as "ransom" raise money for charity, was the occasion for John Richardson and William Knight, law students, to report they discovered ancient letters patent from Henry VII granting all lands discovered by John Cabot in 1497 to his heirs and deputies.

C.I.E. CHARTER

And they believe that a later charter from the king to Bristol Corporation allows the lord mayor and aldermen to claim full rights over the lands.

Two students sent a letter to Prime Minister Pearson offering him Labrador—they didn't mention Newfoundland proper—for a £50 ($150) donation to the Royal Commonwealth Society for the Blind.

"Failure to cough up will mean that we will sell Labrador to the United States or Russia," said the students, who are trying to raise a total of $10,000 ($30,000) by various means.

The first reaction of a Canada House spokesman here was that Premier Smallwood and all Newfoundlanders would be "appalled" at the niggardly price tag put on Labrador's 110,000 square miles.

CABOT'S LAND

Perhaps the students noted that Cabot called it "the land God gave Cain." Anyway, the Canada House spokesman declared:

"When Canada acquired Newfoundland—which, of course, includes Labrador—in 1497, it was done legally. Any claim from the new independent state of Bristol should be taken up with the original owners, the British government."

HISTORY BOOKS

The Manchester Guardian says that what the students found was a reproduction in a history book of a royal charter to Cabot giving him and his descendants the right to "subdue, occupy and possess" Labrador as the king's lieutenants.

There was no reference to any rights Bristol might have in Labrador. In any case, the Guardian notes, Cabot was not a Bristol man but a Venetian who merely used Bristol as a jumping off place for exploration.

"We have no territorial ambitions," said a Bristol Corporation spokesman.

Population Up

Big-City Areas Gaining

OTTAWA (CP)—Eleven big-city areas in Canada averaged a population increase of 4.6 per cent in the two years since the June 1, 1961, census.

A Dominion Bureau of Statistics report on population estimates for major metropolitan areas at June 1, 1963, shows Calgary with the largest percentage increase, 7.5. Edmonton ranked next at 7.2. Toronto added the most people, 100,519, with Montreal adding 85,491.

|           | 1961      | 1963      | UP  |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----|
| Calgary   | 300,000   | 279,062   | 7.5 |
| Edmonton  | 362,000   | 337,588   | 7.2 |
| Ottawa    | 458,000   | 429,750   | 6.6 |
| Toronto   | 1,325,000 | 1,224,481 | 5.5 |
| Quebec    | 376,000   | 357,568   | 5.2 |
| Montreal  | 2,205,000 | 2,109,500 | 4.5 |
| London    | 188,000   | 181,283   | 3.7 |
| Hamilton  | 408,000   | 385,189   | 3.2 |
| Vancouver | 809,000   | 790,165   | 2.4 |
| Winnipeg  | 485,000   | 475,989   | 1.9 |
| Windsor   | 136,000   | 133,365   | 1.2 |
| Totals    | 7,713,000 | 7,373,989 | 4.6 |

The bureau reached its estimates by adding births and subtracting deaths in the areas between 1961 and 1963. It also added immigrants reporting the cities as places of destinations and made an allowance for losses due to emigration. The net movement in and out of each area from or to points in Canada was calculated from family allowance and other information.

Barred Taximan Pleads for Job

An appeal by a cab driver to city council against the refusal of Police Chief John Gregory to grant him a taxicab permit because he had a criminal record was deferred yesterday for two weeks.

The chief constable reported Michael D. Everett had a criminal record dating back to 1955 which included convictions for assault, breaking and entry and theft, possession of drugs and trafficking in drugs.

REHABILITATION BID

Mr. Everett said in making a personal appeal to council against the chief's ruling: "I know my record sounds pretty terrible, but this is an opportunity to rehabilitate myself that I've never had before."

He said he had offers of assistance and support from friends and relatives in his bid to earn a living as a taxi driver.

ONE MORE CHANCE

Ald. Geoffrey Edgekew pleaded for the man to be given "one more chance" to prove that he could live within the law.

"What bothers me is this," he said, "when a man who has been convicted of a crime or crimes and paid his debt to society, is society meant to turn around and tell him, 'no, you can't have a job?'"

SUPPORT CHIEF

Mayor R. B. Wilson, also police commission chairman, said he felt council would be "in error if we do not support the chief of police."

The fact that council recently allowed the appeal of another taxi driver, whose permit was revoked by Chief Gregory for a long list of traffic convictions, did not create a precedent affecting this case, which, he said, involved a record of repeated serious crime.

Spring Run On

Down at old herring-jigging grounds yesterday two young fishermen counted their catch, part of spring run that makes Victorians, young and old, reach for their fishpots and head for the Gorge. Heather Salloway, 7, of 1705 Garnet, and Jo-Anne Gillespie, 8, 1721 Garnet, caught theirs in the Gorge waters by Tillicum bridge.

—Bud Kinman.

Around Town

Saanich Getting Harry Haigh

Harry Haigh, whose home at 1586 Rockland has brought him into court three times on charges of keeping a junk yard, is selling out and moving to a small Saanich farm.

The property, on the market for $32,500, brings its owner into court next week on the third junkyard charge. Thursday he was convicted of obstructing a police officer who was trying to avert trouble between Mr. Haigh and a building inspector.

He says he likes "to collect things and tinker with them," and hopes that if whoever buys the place plans to tear it down, he gets the job.

Victoria stores and businesses are to have the tiny daffodil buttonhole emblems of the Victoria Spring Flower Festival on hand beginning today.

Bernard Cox, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist industry group, said not all businesses would have the tiny flowers on hand by today, but many of them would.

A telegram from Queen Elizabeth, acknowledging congratulations from British Columbia on the birth of a royal prince, was read by Premier Bennett in the legislature yesterday.

The telegram, sent to Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, stated: "I and my husband sincerely thank you and Mrs. Pearkes and the people of British Columbia for your kind congratulations on the birth of our son."

A $40,000 lighting program for the Saanich Peninsula, Tattersall and Saanich Roads begun last fall was completed this week.

A municipal spokesman said last night the number of modern mercury vapor lamps in the municipality was now equal to the number of old-style incandescent street lights.

The Undersea Gardens at Oak Bay Marina will open for the season March 21.

Manager Bruce Champion said yesterday the viewing area at the location has been extended, and later in the season, an aquarium will be built on the surface, to accommodate smaller fish.

A car will be smashed up at Mount Douglas High School at noon today—but it won't be an accident.

The car will be reduced to scrap by students of the school taking turns with a sledge hammer at the rate of 10 cents a swing, or three for a quarter, to raise money for a picture page being planned by the school's newspaper, The Summit.

Principal Eric Forster will take the first swing.

Work-for-welfare proposals and the need for a B.C. ombudsman are among the subjects to be discussed at this year's meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

The annual meeting will be March 23 and 24 in Duncan. Resolutions which member chambers of commerce have already submitted for consideration at the meeting include the usual numerous requests for more and better roads, new boat-launching ramps, improved ferry service and similar items.

But other proposals to be considered at the convention include the Parksville chamber's recommendation that social welfare regulations of the federal and provincial governments be changed so that able-bodied men on welfare can be put to work on public projects.

should have an ombudsman—an official paid to defend the rights of citizens.

The Port Alberni chamber also wants the provincial government to set and enforce regulations dealing with air and water pollution, and to make certain alterations in the laws concerning tree farms.

The only resolution expected to go from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce deals with extension of the Island Highway.

OAK BAY

But among the Victoria delegation to the convention will be Robert Wright, the chairman of the ACCVI fisheries committee, which is expected to come up with some recommendations.

Kiernan on Parks

If New Policy Ever Existed It's Dead Now

B.C.'s controversial new parks policy vanished last night—if it ever really existed.

Recreation Minister Kiernan said the so-called major policy switch was a figment of the imagination of people who misinterpreted his Feb. 19 speech in the legislature.

"My address did not embrace any major new policy with respect to parks," he told the House during debate on recreation and conservation department estimates.

He said mining and timber interests have held rights in B.C.'s major parks for many years. All he had done Feb. 19 was outline how his department hoped to handle them in the best interests of the people.

His earlier speech raised a storm of protest among conservation groups who interpreted it as an "open-door" policy to industry and private investment.

The storm spilled into the legislature yesterday afternoon when debate started on his departmental estimates.

Mr. Kiernan said his original statement had emphasized the lack of access in provincial parks and pointed to the folly of some park boundaries.

The same roads which are built through parks to serve industry also serve hunters and fishermen.

Lack of access to isolated areas of provincial parks is resulting in excessive pressure to the accessible areas.

By extending access through co-operation with industry which already has rights to park assets, such pressure can be relieved.

He pointed out that it was his government which eliminated granting of crown grant mineral claims which amount almost to ownership.

But old crown grants still exist in B.C.'s major parks and so do privately-owned timber berths.

In Strathcona Park there are 98 crown grant claims and 11,407 acres covered by timber berths. Garibaldi Park has 22 crown grant claims and 3,927 timber berths cover 3,200 acres. In Tweedsmuir Park there are 29 crown grant claims and 1,341 acres covered by two pulp licences. In Wells Gray Park there are 16 claims.

Should his department co-operate with the owners to get development of use to the public or should it simply allow industry to go its own way?

Like access roads, he continued, park boundaries should be made to coincide with the needs of the people and the best use of the area.

"My observations (Feb. 19) on Strathcona Park were that there is not sufficient access and that the boundaries bore no relationship to the topography of the region."

He said a park boundary drawn on a map could not be considered as sacred.

The government had withdrawn one vast park reserve established years ago because it was nothing but muskeg.

Wilderness Areas

His department would continue to provide and protect wilderness areas but in the process it could not deprive the public of 90 per cent of the provincial park area.

The provincial park program must be geared to multi-use and to do this it is necessary to provide ski towns and places to eat.

"What is the objection to having these provided by private capital?" he asked.

There were many areas in Class B parks which should be neither logged nor mined, he said, but there were also areas in which stood over-mature timber and which were of no recreational use at all.

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said earlier that while the B.C. government was allowing the "thin edge of the wedge" of exploitation to creep into its parks, authorities in the rest of the world were trying to drive it out or keep it from getting in.

There was no difference in principle between what the government had proposed and the start of logging in Beacon Hill Park.

Gordon Takes Halting Step To Cut Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon's first step towards balancing the federal budget was a halting one—a nominal $6,600,000 reduction in the budgetary deficit to $685,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Mr. Gordon reported the deficit—third-highest in peacetime history—in a white paper tabled in the Commons Thursday as the prelude to his second budget speech next Monday evening.

It's generally expected the new budget will take a considerably larger step toward the minister's oft-stated goal of reducing the gap between spending and revenues.

See story Page 11

Mr. Gordon outlined the measures contained in his top-secret budget to cabinet colleagues at a cabinet meeting Thursday, informants said. He plans on putting finishing touches to the speech during a weekend visit to Toronto.

The total of seven consecutive annual deficits now stands at $5,569,000,000—six of them incurred under the past Conservative government including the peacetime peak of $791,000,000 in red ink in 1961-62.

LATER REVISION
The preliminary estimate of a $685,000,000 deficit for 1963-64, subject to later revision, was $30,000,000 higher than his forecast last July 8 when Mr. Gordon made some major alterations to his June 13 budget including a sharp cut in the new sales tax on building materials and production equipment.

The minister's first budget speech—prior to those alterations—had aimed at a $685,000,000 deficit.
Although 25 days later he blunted the initial effort at shrinking the deficit, he told the Commons last summer: "We cannot contemplate an indefinite series of budget deficits."

NEW TAX
Budgetary revenues for 1963-64, buoyed by the diminished new sales tax and by economic expansion, rose 5.6 per cent to $3,207,000,000 from $3,078,700,000 last fiscal year.

Budgetary expenditures rose 4.9 per cent to $6,892,000,000 from $6,570,300,000.

Queen Mum Arrives In Jamaica

KINGSTON — Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived here by air Thursday to join the royal yacht Britannia for a convalescent cruise in the Caribbean.

She flew here from New York's Kennedy International Airport, where she had tea and rested during a one-hour stop-over while the BOAC transatlantic jetliner in which she travelled from London was refuelled.

During the wait she walked beneath a protective ramp to the Kennedy airport's lounge for distinguished visitors.

A spokesman said the Queen Mother was on "a very private visit." She is convalescing from an appendectomy. In Jamaica, she will board the royal yacht Britannia for a cruise.

Without Delay, Reds Told

Fliers' Return Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States demanded Thursday that the Soviets turn over "without delay" the three American crew members of the U.S. RB-66 plane shot down over Communist East Germany Tuesday.

In the face of Russian rebuttals of U.S. attempts to get back the wreckage and the fliers, Washington stepped up its diplomatic effort by summoning Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F.

Dobrynin to the state department.
Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, senior adviser on East-West affairs, told the Russian envoy, in a 12-minute meeting:

"The U.S. government categorically denies as contrary to fact the allegation in the Soviet government's note of March 11 that the U.S. aircraft in question was 'engaged in a military intelligence mission.'"

"The U.S. government expects the Soviet authorities to return to U.S. custody without delay the three U.S. personnel who were members of the crew of the aircraft."

Richard I. Phillips, state department press officer, issued this version of Thompson's oral representation to the Russian ambassador. Phillips earlier had disclosed that the Soviets had barred U.S. military teams from the crash site, about 30 miles inside East Germany, and had supplied no information about the three U.S. officers who had been aboard.

Washington had initially expressed regret that the plane had crossed into Red air space, and hoped the incident would pass. But, the longer the Soviets hold the three airmen, the more serious the affair becomes.

Phillips said the U.S. government still has no official word as to whether the three fliers are alive. Unofficial reports say the men parachuted safely.

No Fires to Tend

Rome Firemen Fiddle To Protest Poor Pay

ROME (AP)—Rome's baggy-trousered fire-fighters fiddled the day away on strike Thursday in complaint against overwork and underpay.

But, as usual, there wasn't a fire to be fought. Rome, built mostly of stone, hasn't had a really spectacular fire since Nero's day.

Even so, the firemen in their century-old uniform of baggy brown pants, are kept busy. Although fires are few, they are called for flooded basements, drownings in the muddy Tiber, cats trod in the city's ancient umbrella pines, and the perils of crumbling cornices and weakened walls.

Despite the 48-hour strike that started at midnight Wednesday night, the firemen left emergency crews on alert, ready to deal with any alarms. They are demanding additional leave, extra time off after overtime duty, overtime pay for everything over a 40-hour week, and pay raises.

Body of King Paul Leaves Cathedral

Royalty, Greeks By Million Mourn King

ATHENS (AP)—Six of Europe's seven reigning sovereigns and a host of other dignitaries from around the world took part Thursday in a funeral procession for King Paul.

The Greek monarch was buried on a tree-covered hill overlooking the country palace at Tatoi, 16 miles north of Athens, where he died of uremia a week ago following surgery for stomach ulcers.

More than 1,000,000 Greeks lined Athens' streets and the road to the grave to weep and pray as the man who had ruled for 17 of his 62 years passed to his final rest.

QUEEN ABSENT

Of Europe's sovereigns, only Queen Elizabeth of Britain was not there to say goodbye. She had a son Tuesday and could not come. Her husband, Prince Philip, a cousin of King Paul, attended.

The youngest of the monarchs was King Paul's own son and successor, King Constantine, 23. The oldest was King Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden, 81. Walking with them were King Baudoin of Belgium, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, King

White Parents Picket

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of white parents, civil rights organizations, Thursday staged one of the largest protest demonstrations ever seen at city hall.

Their 2½-hour picketing protested plans to transfer pupils from neighborhood schools to balance enrollments racially.

Suddenly she said: "This is it."
So Deakin delivered his mother's sixth child and resolved to start a midwifery course next week.

DISASTER CENTRE

The Red Cross opened disaster headquarters in Cincinnati to aid approximately 110,000 persons in five states whose property has been damaged by floods.

Of the nine deaths blamed on high waters, seven were in Ohio. One was reported in Kentucky; the other in Indiana.

Property damage soared into the multi-million-dollar category, particularly in areas without floodwalls.

WALLS IN POSITION
After a slow start, Louisville got its floodwalls into position as the Ohio reached 46.1 feet, or 18.1 feet more than flood stage. This still was 11 feet under the record during the 1937 catastrophe. The Ohio is expected to rise another foot.

At Cincinnati, 120 miles upstream, it was 14 feet above flood level.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY

At least 4,000 were homeless in Indiana and residents in the southern part waited anxiously for the Ohio to crest. New Albany and Jeffersonville, opposite Louisville, were safe behind their concrete shields, locked for the first time since they were completed in 1952. Outside the floodwall, an estimated 600 families fled.

3,000 BUILDINGS HIT

More than 3,000 homes and buildings in Wheeling, W.Va., were damaged as the river levelled off at 47 feet, 10 feet above flood stage. Snow swirled into the region, where an estimated 15,000 to 18,000 had been displaced.

Army engineers figured Pennsylvania damage would total $5,800,000 and said 1,700 persons had been displaced.

Ravaged States Await Ohio's Flood Crest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Creeping up by inches, the overloaded Ohio River strengthened its assault Thursday on Kentucky and Indiana. Each state waited for near-record crests.

The worst appeared over for other states lying in the river's path but snow added to the discomfort of flood refugees in West Virginia's northern panhandle.

TURKS' FATE HANGS ON UN

NICOSIA (AP)—The United Nations Thursday night hastened efforts to speed a peace-keeping force to Cyprus before this battered island could explode into even bloodier ethnic strife.

Between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in voluntary contributions were reported pledged by the United States, Britain and other countries for the upkeep of the peace force authorized last week by the UN Security Council.

Intensified activity at United Nations headquarters in New York came as the armed frontier demarcating the Turkish and Greek-Cypriot sectors here bristled with warlike activity.

FORTIFY POSITIONS

In the last few days, from 600 to 1,000 troops of the Greek-Cypriot security forces have moved into fortified positions along many areas of the dividing line, British soldiers reported.

The British have fortified their own positions and pointed several big anti-tank guns into the Greek-Cypriot sector.

Turkish-Cypriots also have been busy on their side, throwing up a second long row of earthworks parallel to the Kyrenia Road. The road leads out of the Turkish sector to the Kyrenia mountains in the north.

A Turkish-Cypriot leader in London said urgent international action is essential if the

We'll Help —Martin

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin met with Secretary-General U Thant for 1½ hours Thursday night and said afterwards he had "reassured" the secretary-general that Canada will participate in an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus as soon as one is constituted.

He indicated Canada would consider a force had been constituted when one more country besides Britain and Canada had committed itself to contribute.

The Canadian Parliament would have to approve the force.

STAND-BY

Martin said Canada's standby contingent of about 1,000 to 1,500 men could be dispatched quickly to the Mediterranean island.

"Once a force has been established there will be no delay on our part," he said.

Asked why Canada had "delayed" its reply for eight days,

If, When Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday

Canada will participate in a United Nations Cyprus force "if and when" one is constituted.

The conditions laid down by this country for participation have been "substantially fulfilled," he told the Commons which received his statement in silence.

Earlier, the prime minister told a reporter that Canada is all set to send a battalion group of about 1,000 men—to Cyprus. He said a force should be sent soon because of the worsening situation there.

MORE TROOPS

He hinted in the Commons that Canada may furnish more troops than the battalion group of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Camp Valcartier, Que.

He said the size of the Canadian contingent would be determined by the extent of participation by other countries.

Informed sources said Canada is willing to participate in a Cyprus force if a minimum of three countries—Canada, Britain and one other—contribute to it.

There were indications that Sweden is willing to join in now that the UN is receiving financial contributions to help pay

$22.50 Salmon

NANAIMO (CP) — David Grestville Gray had the boat, but not the knowledge of the fishing regulations. Gray told the court Thursday that when he was found with salmon out of season he had just purchased the commercial fish boat Rosie. The out-of-season fish cost Gray $12.50 and costs; lack of a commercial fishing licence cost him another $10 and costs.

Man Gets Five Years For Entry

NANAIMO—An Alert Bay man has been sentenced to five years in the British Columbia penitentiary after being convicted by an assize court jury of breaking and entering with intent to commit an indictable offence.

Paul Benjamin West, 26, was found guilty Tuesday of breaking into the Alert Bay post office, and remanded for sentence until Thursday.

Presiding Judge, Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton, handed down the sentence. D. R. Williams of Duncan, crown counsel, had earlier told the court of West's seven previous convictions for criminal offences.

River Road Inspection Scheduled

PORT ALBERNI — Council has decided to have the city's consulting engineers take a look at the situation on Franklin River Road where a washout in a heavy rainstorm last December caused extensive damage.

A letter from a solicitor acting for Wim Verbrugge, the potato farmer who lost machinery and part of his crop in the washout, expressed the opinion that a dangerous situation still exists, with the water from a culvert threatening to wash fill material down the bank.

Jaycee Group Seeks Miss Alberni Valley

PORT ALBERNI — The Jaycees' committee for the Miss Alberni Valley contest has issued an invitation to district organizations to enter candidates. Deadline for entries is April 30.

Ernie Hamm, committee chairman, said it has been decided to limit the entries to 15, and arrangements are being made for the final judging to take place at a dinner-dance on May 9.

Service clubs and other organizations wishing further information may get in touch with Mr. Hamm, John Skelton or Ken Barlow, committee members.

In the past the local winner has been named Miss Port Alberni, but Jaycees have decided to change the name to show that the winner represents the entire Alberni Valley as she goes on to compete for the Miss PNE title.

Together for 63 Years

Nanaimo's 'Happy Honeymooners' Sell Smiles

By ERITH M. SMITH

If there's a new feeling of good-will right now in Gorge Road Hospital, and more smiles in evidence among both patients and staff, credit should probably go to Mr. and Mrs. W. Lorne Dunn of Nanaimo — the "happy honeymooners."

Lorne and Frankie Dunn are not really honeymooners, although they did about it a lot — and are obviously as happy together as any newlyweds.

As a matter of fact, he is 85, she is 84 — and next May 15 they will celebrate their 63rd wedding anniversary.

"Togetherness" is word much scoffed these days, but the Duns have practised it for more than three score years. Their manner of doing it is simple, wonderful — and enviable.

Even as individuals, they're remarkable.

Mrs. Dunn, while strolling near a picnic site some years ago near Duncan, found herself staring at a cougar in the eye. The cougar (later shot and found to measure nine feet) gave up and went away. "I couldn't do anything else but stare," Mrs. Dunn explains it today. "I was paralyzed!"

When Lorne was 70 he decided to visit his mother in Vancouver on her 90th birthday. She asked him what he was doing these days.

Lorne, who'd been retired at 65 after 50 years with the Canadian Pacific Railway, had to tell her "Nothing very much."

"The idea!" she exclaimed. "A strapping young fellow like you not doing anything!"

Lorne was so embarrassed he went back to Nanaimo, applied for and got a job as assistant engineer with the federal public works department. He kept it for three and a half years, too.

Frankie was born in Ottawa, lived as an infant at Duck Lake, Sask., through the Riel Rebellion, then returned east. When she was about 15 the family returned west to Winnipeg, and at 18 Frankie was a telegraph operator there with the CPR.

Lorne was born near Stratford, Ont., came west to Grenfell, Sask., in 1884, moved to Portage la Prairie, Man., and learned telegraphy there.

He was transferred to the Winnipeg main office in 1897, and when Frankie joined the staff soon after their romance began.

Two years later they married, and in 1904 Lorne became the first station agent at Gimli, Man.

In 1911 the Duns were transferred to the E. & N.

division of the CPR on Vancouver Island, living at Duncan until 1919 when he was moved to Nanaimo as city agent.

Nanaimo has been their home ever since, and for the last 40 years they have lived at 110 Stewart Avenue.

Some years after he retired in 1943, Mr. Dunn was pleasantly surprised to learn that old had been discovered on a farm he owned in southern Saskatchewan.

This meant no further financial worries, but changed little else about their lives.

Mr. Dunn was a founder of the Nanaimo Kiwanis Club, and for 39 years served as auditor for the Nanaimo-Cedar Farmers' Institute. He is also a member of the Masons and the Canadian Order of Foresters. Mrs. Dunn belongs to the Eastern Star.

They have one daughter and two grandchildren in Victoria — Mrs. Glenn Kemp, Anne and Douglas, of 2086 Granite — and two other grandchildren, Mrs. Muriel Smith, Vancouver, and Mrs. Shirley Carr, Halifax. There are four great-grandchildren.

Yes, you may ask, but where does Gorge Road Hospital come into the picture?

Last Feb. 10 the Duns were returning home when, after leaving a bus across the street from their house, they were both hit by a car.

Both suffered broken hips and other injuries, and spent three weeks in Nanaimo Regional Hospital.

A week ago Thursday they were transferred — together, of course, in the same ambulance — to Gorge Hospital for therapy.

They're still getting around only in wheelchairs, but they're doing just fine.

And whenever they want to confide in each other they can still do so without anyone else being the wiser.

While onlookers smile at the happy couple holding hands, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn are really "talking" — with their fingertips in Morse code.

Island Chambers

Welfare, Ombudsman Ferries on Agenda

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Work-for-welfare proposals and the need for a B.C. ombudsman are among the subjects to be discussed at this year's meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

The annual meeting will be March 23 and 24 in Duncan. Resolutions which member chambers of commerce have already submitted for consideration at the meeting include the usual numerous requests for more and better roads, new boat-launching ramps, improved ferry service and similar items.

PUT TO WORK

But other proposals to be considered at the convention include the Parksville chamber's recommendation that social welfare regulations of the federal and provincial governments be changed so that able-bodied men on welfare can be put to work on public projects.

The Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce thinks B.C. should have an ombudsman — an official paid to defend the rights of citizens.

AIR POLLUTION

The Port Alberni chamber also wants the provincial government to set and enforce regulations dealing with air and water pollution, and to make certain alterations in the laws concerning tree farms.

The only resolution expected to go from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce deals with extension of the Island Highway.

OAK BAY

But among the Victoria delegation to the convention will be Robert Wright, the chairman of the ACCVI fisheries committee, which is expected to come up with some recommendations.

Among the resolutions are recommendations from the Port Alberni chamber for a highway along the west coast of Vancouver Island and for a direct road connection between the Alberni and Courtenay.

250 RESIDENTS

Campaign workers were particularly pleased because the island's permanent population is only about 250.

Campaign chairman was Mrs. Nanette New. Assistants were Mrs. Gerald Steward, Mrs. William Campbell, Mrs. W. J. Maier, Mrs. I. G. Denroche, Mrs. M. F. Steele, Mrs. C. A. Bell at Retreat Cove and Mrs. Harry Baines at North Galiano.

Other resolutions call for Forbidden Plateau, Seal Island and Goose Spit in the Courtenay area to be made into public parks.

Campbell River wants more government funds to be spent for artificial spawning beds and a hook-and-line closure for grilse from Dec. 1 to March 1.

No Joke Second Time

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP) — Bootlegger Milford Devlin asked his two customers if they were policemen. They said they were and left with their three bottles of spirits.

A week later he delivered two more bottles to the men's hotel room.

"Oh," he said jokingly. "It's you two cops again."

Thursday Devlin, a taxi driver, paid fines totalling $700 on two charges of unlawfully selling liquor to two plainclothes RCMP officers.

Chase River Man Dies Of Injuries

NANAIMO — An elderly Chase River man died in Nanaimo Regional General Hospital Wednesday night of severe head injuries received in a car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway south of Nanaimo.

Matthew Stafford, 85, was driving a car which was involved in a collision with a truck carrying 22 tons of lumber. The driver of the truck, owned by Domans Ltd., was Robert Ridley. He was not injured.

RCMP said Mr. Stafford was entering the highway from Halliburton Extension and apparently did not see the truck heading towards him. The truck vainly swerved to avoid the Stafford vehicle which was knocked backwards, off the road.

Coroner Russ Inkster is conducting an inquiry which he indicated would be completed by the end of next week.

$47,993 Surplus Shown in Alberni

ALBERNI — A surplus of $47,993 was shown in the city of Alberni's financial statement for 1963, presented to council this week.

Finance chairman Ald. C. M. Blair pointed out that the actual revenue exceeded the estimates by $18,571, half of the excess coming about because for the first time the provincial government made a grant to the city in lieu of taxes equal to 15 mills on government property.

Involved in the grant were the courthouse building and the forestry station. With regard to expenditures, all departments operated at less than estimates and the total amounted to approximately $8,000. Almost $3,000 of this was in administration, brought about by the participation of the new sewer utility in administration costs in the latter part of the year.

Ald. Blair reported that approximately $2,000 of the $4,000 earmarked for the city's 50th anniversary projects was unused, but the money will probably be used for site improvements for the proposed health centre. Welfare costs were about $4,000 less than estimated, but an adjustment is expected to eliminate this surplus at the end of the provincial government's fiscal year.

Total figure for the first two months of 1964 is $52,991, compared to $64,329 in the same period of last year.

Pal Tells Of 'Capers'

NANAIMO — A friend-or former friend—gave evidence here at the trial of Robert Leon Dunbar, charged with four counts of breaking and entering, two charges of possession of stolen goods and unlawfully setting a fire.

Dunbar is charged with breaking into the Thetis Lake concession stand, Berry's Garage at Cobble Hill, the Goldstream inn, and at Stenmark's Jewellers during the summer of 1963.

He is also accused of possessing a tape recorder and a set of tools, allegedly stolen in two of the burglaries, and setting fire to a steel safe at Berry's Garage.

Dwight William Darby, now an inmate at Haney Correctional Institute, testified at the spring assizes he had been involved with Dunbar on all these activities except the jewelry-store break-in.

Darby said he and Dunbar, while at a party with others in July, had discussed "capers" which could be accomplished in the area.

"Robert and I took the discussion more seriously than the others."

The trial is continuing.

Gordon Takes Halting Step To Cut Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon's first step towards balancing the federal budget was a halting one—a nominal $6,600,000 reduction in the budgetary deficit to $685,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31.

Mr. Gordon reported the deficit—third-highest in peacetime history—in a white paper tabled in the Commons Thursday as the prelude to his second budget speech next Monday evening.

It's generally expected the new budget will take a considerably larger step toward the minister's oft-stated goal of reducing the gap between spending and revenue.

See story Page 11

Mr. Gordon outlined the measures contained in his top-secret budget to cabinet colleagues at a cabinet meeting Thursday, informants said. He plans on putting finishing touches to the speech during a weekend visit to Toronto.

The total of seven consecutive annual deficits now stands at $3,569,000,000—six of them incurred under the past Conservative government including the peacetime peak of $791,000,000 in red ink in 1961-62.

The preliminary estimate of a $685,000,000 deficit for 1963-64, subject to later revision, was $70,000,000 higher than his forecast last July 8 when Mr. Gordon made some major alterations to his June 13 budget including a sharp cut in the new sales tax on building materials and production equipment.

The minister's first budget speech—prior to those alterations—had aimed at a $585,000,000 deficit.

Although 25 days later he blunted this initial effort at shrinking the deficit, he told the Commons last summer: "We cannot contemplate an indefinite series of budget deficits."

NEW TAX
Budgetary revenues for 1963-64, buoyed by the diminished new sales tax and by economic expansion, rose 5.6 per cent to $2,207,000,000 from $2,178,700,000 last fiscal year.

Budgetary expenditures rose 4.9 per cent to $2,892,000,000 from $2,870,300,000.

She flew here from New York's Kennedy International Airport, where she had tea and rested during a one-hour stopover while the BOAC transatlantic jetliner in which she travelled from London was refueled.

During the wait she walked beneath a protective ramp to the Kennedy airport's lounge for distinguished visitors.

A spokesman said the Queen Mother was on "a very private visit." She is convalescing from an appendectomy. In Jamaica, she will board the royal yacht Britannia for a cruise.

Body of Greek Monarch Leaves Cathedral in Athens

Royalty, Greeks By Million Mourn King

ATHENS (AP)—Six of Europe's seven reigning sovereigns and a host of other dignitaries from around the world took part Thursday in a funeral procession for King Paul.

The Greek monarch was buried on a tree-covered hill overlooking the country palace at Tatoi, 16 miles north of Athens, where he died of uremia a week ago following surgery for stomach ulcers.

More than 1,000,000 Greeks lined Athens' streets and the road to the grave to weep and pray as the man who had ruled for 17 of his 62 years passed to his final rest.

QUEEN ABSENT
Of Europe's sovereigns, only Queen Elizabeth of Britain was not there to say goodbye. She had a son Tuesday and could not come. Her husband, Prince Philip, a cousin of King Paul, attended.

The youngest of the monarchs was King Paul's own son and successor, King Constantine. 23. The oldest was King Gustav VI Adolf of Sweden, 81. Walking with them were King Baudouin of Belgium, Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, King

Angry Premier Cuts Debate

An angry Premier Bennett abruptly cut off a marathon debate on Recreation Minister Kiernan's estimates at 1:10 a.m. today after he was accused of legislation by exhaustion.

The debate lasted for eight hours and 35 minutes and centred around Mr. Kiernan's controversial Feb. 19 speech heralding a new approach to industrial activity in parks.

The premier snatched back Mr. Kiernan's estimates totaling $3,900 and announced the House would sit again at 2 p.m. today to deal with bills. (See Page 38.)

The exhaustion charge came from Leo Nimsick (NDP, Cranbrook).

The government was expected later today to try an ancient gambit to ram through Mr. Kiernan's estimates.

This would involve placing the bill back in debate a short time before 6 p.m. when the house usually rises for the weekend.

Earlier in the debate Mr. Kiernan indicated, in answer to a question from Mrs. Lois Haggan (NDP Grand Forks-Greenwood) that the government will consider naming a provincial park after the late Ernest Winch, a veteran CCFer in B.C. politics.

Ravaged States Await Ohio's Flood Crest

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Creeping up by inches, the overloaded Ohio River strengthened its assault Thursday on Kentucky and Indiana. Each state waited for near-record crests.

The worst appeared over for other states lying in the river's path but snow added to the discomfort of flood refugees in West Virginia's northern panhandle.

DISASTER CENTRE
The Red Cross opened disaster headquarters in Cincinnati to aid approximately 110,000 persons in five states whose property has been damaged by floods.

Of the nine deaths blamed on high waters, seven were in Ohio. One was reported in Kentucky; the other in Indiana.

Property damage soared into the multi-million-dollar category, particularly in areas without floodwalls.

WALLS IN POSITION

After a slow start, Louisville got its floodwalls into position as the Ohio reached 46.1 feet, or 18.1 feet more than flood stage. This still was 11 feet under the record during the 1937 catastrophe. The Ohio is expected to rise another foot.

At Cincinnati, 120 miles upstream, it was 14 feet above flood level.

WAIT ANXIOUSLY

At least 4,000 were homeless in Indiana and residents in the southern part waited anxiously for the Ohio to crest. New Albany and Jeffersonville, opposite Louisville, were safe behind their concrete shields, locked for the first time since they were completed in 1952. Outside the floodwall, an estimated 600 families fled.

3,000 BUILDINGS HIT

More than 3,000 homes and buildings in Wheeling, W.Va., were damaged as the river levelled off at 47 feet, 10 feet above flood stage. Snow swirled into the region, where an estimated 15,000 to 18,000 had been displaced.

Army engineers figured Pennsylvania damage would total $5,800,000 and said 1,700 persons had been displaced.

NICOSIA (AP) — The United Nations Thursday night hastened efforts to speed a peace-keeping force to Cyprus before this battered island could explode into even bloodier ethnic strife.

Between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in voluntary contributions were reported pledged by the United States, Britain and other countries for the upkeep of the peace force authorized last week by the UN Security Council.

Intensified activity at United Nations headquarters in New York came as the armed frontier demarking the Turkish and Greek-Cypriot sectors here bristled with warlike activity.

In the last few days, from 600 to 1,000 troops of the Greek-Cypriot security forces have moved into fortified positions along many areas of the dividing line, British soldiers reported.

The British have fortified their own positions and pointed several big anti-tank guns into the Greek-Cypriot sector.

Turkish-Cypriots also have been busy on their side, throwing up a second long row of earthworks parallel to the Kyrenia Road. The road leads out of the Turkish sector to the Kyrenia mountains in the north.

A Turkish-Cypriot leader in London said urgent international action is essential if the

We'll Help —Martin

If, When Says Pearson

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin met with Secretary-General U Thant for 1½ hours Thursday night and said afterwards he had "reassured" the secretary-general that Canada will participate in an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus as soon as one is constituted.

He indicated Canada would consider a force had been constituted when one more country besides Britain and Canada had committed itself to contribute.

The Canadian Parliament would have to approve the force.

Martin said Canada's standby contingent of about 1,000 to 1,100 men could be dispatched quickly to the Mediterranean island.

"Once a force has been established there will be no delay on our part," he said.

Asked why Canada had "delayed" its reply for eight days,

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday Canada will participate in a United Nations Cyprus force "if and when" one is constituted. The conditions laid down by this country for participation have been "substantially fulfilled," he told the Commons which received his statement in silence.

Earlier, the prime minister told a reporter that Canada is all set to send a battalion group—about 1,000 men—to Cyprus. He said a force should be sent soon because of the worsening situation there.

He hinted in the Commons that Canada may furnish more troops than the battalion group of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Camp Valcartier, Que.

ATHENS (Reuters)—Greece pledged "adequate reaction" today following a Turkish warning to President Makarios that Turkey will intervene unless measures are taken to safeguard Turks there.

He said the size of the Canadian contingent would be determined by the extent of participation by other countries.

Informed sources said Canada is willing to participate in a Cyprus force if a minimum of three countries—Canada, Britain and one other—contribute to it.

There were indications that Sweden is willing to join in now that the UN is receiving financial contributions to help pay

Fliers' Return Demanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States demanded Thursday that the Soviets turn over "without delay" the three American crew members of the U.S. RB-66 plane shot down over Communist East Germany Tuesday.

In the face of Russian rebuffs of U.S. attempts to get back the wreckage and the fliers, Washington stepped up its diplomatic effort by summoning Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F.

Dobrynin to the state department. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson, senior adviser on East-West affairs, told the Russian envoy, in a 12-minute meeting:

"The U.S. government categorically denies as contrary to fact the allegation in the Soviet government's note of March 11 that the U.S. aircraft in question was engaged in a military intelligence mission."

"The U.S. government expects the Soviet authorities to return to U.S. custody without delay the three U.S. personnel who were members of the crew of the aircraft."

Richard I. Phillips, state department press officer, issued this version of Thompson's oral representation to the Russian ambassador. Phillips earlier had disclosed that the Soviets had barred U.S. military teams from the crash site, about 30 miles inside East Germany, and had supplied no information about the three U.S. officers who had been aboard.

Washington had initially expressed regret that the plane had crossed into Red air space, and hoped the incident would pass. But, the longer the Soviets hold the three airmen, the more serious the affair becomes.

Phillips said the U.S. government still has no official word as to whether the three fliers are alive. Unofficial reports say the men parachuted safely.
